

Heavy Rainfall Sends Rivers in State Back to Flood Levels

Six Families Forced to Evacuate Homes in Menasha DAM GATES OPEN Prairie du Chien Residents Also Driven From Homes

Milwaukee—(P)—Rain continued to fall Monday over much of southern and central Wisconsin, driving rivers and streams back to flood level marks established earlier during two weeks of almost continuous downpours.

The flooding Fox river forced six families to flee homes at Menasha. Five families evacuated their residences today at Prairie du Chien, where the Mississippi stood at 18.4 feet.

The families evacuated at Prairie du Chien brought the weekend total forced to abandon their homes there to 30. Muddy water from the Mississippi, which submerged large areas of lowlands in the vicinity, filled the basements and rose above the first floors. A woman, member of one of the evacuated families, contracted pneumonia, while authorities reported a man was found dead of undetermined cause.

At Menasha water took possession of the homes in spite of the fact that gates of the Menasha dam were sluicing more water out of lake Winnebago into the lower Fox river than at any time in the city's history.

Winnebago stood 18 inches above crest of the Menasha dam, a government engineer reported, and the Fox 22 inches.

A swirling current disrupted navigation on the Fox and hunters' shanties were torn loose from their moorings near Oshkosh.

Fox Above Banks

The Fox rose out of its banks at Omro, where the entire city park was submerged. At New London the Wolf river covered hundreds of acres of lowlands but appeared to be holding its 81 foot stage.

Oshkosh reported 2.09 inches of rain since Saturday morning and a year's total of 39.25, only 2.40 inches short of the all time 12-month high set in 1890.

During the same period 3.06 inches of rain fell at Janesville, where the Rock river reached its highest level since the spring floods of 1937. Green Bay reported a total of 88 inches during the last 24 hours; Wausau 45; Madison 34; Milwaukee 36; LaCrosse 42, and Park Falls 28.

At Park Falls the temperature dropped to a low of 38 degrees in the last 24 hours. Light to heavy frosts were predicted for the state Monday if the sky cleared.

The weatherman offered no relief from the continuing rainfall in this vicinity during the last two days but did say "if the skies clear there will be a light to heavy frost." His gloomy prediction for this area was "mostly cloudy to night."

With navigation practically impossible on the Fox river because of the dangerous cross currents, families fleeing homes at Menasha and Lake Winnebago 18 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam, the outlook for the next few days is not optimistic.

Six Fires are Laid to 'Alcoholic Pyromaniac'

New York—(P)—A firebug that authorities believed to be an "alcoholic pyromaniac" terrorized 50 families in six Brooklyn apartment houses early today, driving them into the streets in their night clothes.

The fires broke out within a space of 50 minutes in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, all but one in rubbish in the basements. The sixth fire was in a baby carriage near the stairway landing on the top floor.

Fire Marshall Thomas P. Brophy ordered an immediate and widespread search of the section. He said he was convinced the fires were started by an "alcoholic pyromaniac" who was obsessed with a desire to watch fire trucks speed to the scene.

Assembly Bill Unfair to Workers

Legislator Farley's bill to make all holidays fall on Monday seems downright unjust. Why discriminate? In all fairness the bill should make a holiday fall on every 24-hour period except Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Then, every evening, all holiday-making workers, including legislators, could join in singing "The End of A Perfect Day." But until that Utopian event comes to pass, any work-day will remain a perfect day to run a classified want-ad in The Post-Crescent.

Accidents Over Weekend Result In Seven Deaths

One Victim Drowns in Ditch After Auto Hits Culvert

By the Associated Press

Storms and treacherous highways contributed heavily to Wisconsin's toll of seven dead over the weekend. One man drowned in a roadside ditch, and another during a yacht race.

The Dead:
Alfred Scott, 65, Oshkosh.
Theodore Larsen, 35, Milwaukee.
Edward Wiese, 46, Thiensville.
Mrs. Adolph Portz, 60, Neillsville.
George Feldman, 45, Detroit.
Myron Griffey, 23, Edgerton.
Harold Franz, 21, Tomah.

Scott was killed Sunday when he was struck by an automobile while crossing an Oshkosh business street.

Larsen, a professional sailor, slipped on the wet decks of the 63-foot schooner Volante of the Milwaukee Yacht club in the annual wind point race Sunday, went overboard and drowned when he was unable to see a life preserver thrown near him.

Asks for Data on Wisconsin Probe

Sheppard Wants Investigators to Give Report On Findings

Washington—(P)—Chairman Sheppard (D-Texas) of the senate campaign expenditures committee, asked today for a report from investigators who have been inquiring into charges WPA workers were asked to contribute to Senator F. Ryan Duffy's unopposed campaign for re-election in the Wisconsin Democratic primary.

The charges were made by William H. Stafford, former congressman who is seeking the Republican senatorial nomination in the primary tomorrow.

Stafford's charges have been under investigation by two committee investigators, Sheppard said.

He instructed aids to get in touch with Joseph G. Cannon, one of the investigators, by telephone for a preliminary report.

The chairman previously held a violation of the criminal code for any person to solicit contributions from WPA workers for a senator's campaign.

Green Getting 'Fed Up' With U. S. Labor Board

Milwaukee—(P)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told interviewers today he was getting "fed up" with the national labor relations board.

"I'm sick and tired of it," he said. "There's altogether too much interference with A. F. of L. organization policies."

Criticizing the CIO, Green said it had failed both as an economic and political force and had served only to split labor. He said the "door is open to any CIO union to come back to labor's family."

The press and public were excluded when the A. F. of L. president addressed the fifty-fourth convention gathering here of the International Union of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers.

Milwaukee—(P)—Jay Roland Perry, was sentenced in district court today to serve six months in the house of correction for cruelty to his 11-month-old son. The mother said Perry had been spanking the child every time he heard it cry since it was seven weeks old.

End Campaigns For Wisconsin Primary Race

G. O. P. and Democratic Candidates for Governor Give Final Speeches

NEW YORK AT POLLS Nation Watches President's 'Purge' Campaign in Home State

Milwaukee—(P)—Republican and Democratic candidates for governor closed active speaking campaigns with addresses at meetings and over the radio here over the weekend.

Mrs. Gertrude Bowler, Sheboygan, former Democratic national committeewoman, threw her support to Robert K. Henry, coalition candidate for governor, in a radio address last night. She urged "thinking men and women" to get behind a single candidate for governor, and nominate Henry on both Republican and Democratic tickets.

Julius P. Heil, Republican candidate, predicted his nomination tomorrow by a "large plurality in an unusual Republican vote." He made several speeches Saturday and Sunday, despite the rain.

In a radio address yesterday, Jerome Fox, of Chilton, Democratic candidate, pledged "a substantial decrease in taxation without disturbing government service."

William E. White, campaign manager for James G. Peterson, Republican candidate, predicted Peterson would get his biggest vote upstate.

Seek Senate Pact

Candidates for the Republican nomination for United States senator spoke in Milwaukee and several other cities over the weekend.

Alexander Wiley, Republican candidate, said in an address here the "New Deal has blundered into hopeless confusion but still seeks to woo votes on contentions of 'have patience in our leadership'."

Edward J. Samp, also a Republican candidate, advocated a nine-point recovery program that would "assure a sound permanent recovery, restore representative government and enact a just tax law based on ability to pay."

Stephen J. McMahon, also a Republican candidate, claimed he had the endorsement of the "Progressive-Republican club of Wisconsin." The endorsement, he said, was in a letter over the signature of Dr. James K. Robinson, president, and William R. White, secretary, both of Milwaukee.

Drunken Driver Fined $50, Costs Raymond John Steffen, 43, Appleton, Pleads Guilty to Charge

Raymond John Steffen, 43, 1305 S. Pierce avenue, arrested by city police Saturday afternoon after a traffic accident in which one person was injured, pleaded guilty of drunk driving when he appeared before Judge J. Edgar Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning.

Steffen was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 60 days under both the city and state laws and his driving license was revoked for one year. The fine under the state statute will be remitted upon payment of the city fine, and Steffen indicated he would pay.

Cars driven by Steffen and Harold Hauert, 25, 721 N. Rankin street, collided about 12:50 Saturday afternoon. Hauert was going west on Prospect avenue, and Steffen was traveling east on Prospect avenue and turned to go north on Memorial drive when the accident occurred, according to police.

Anita Krahn, 26, 216 Desnoyer street, occupant of the Hauert car, suffered minor injuries and was treated by a local physician.

Brooke Starts to Serve Sentence, Denies Guilt

Columbus, Ga.—(P)—A written statement reiterating his denial that he killed his wife and attacking the nature of the testimony on which he was convicted was issued today by Major John R. Brooke, Jr., former infantry instructor.

He was taken to the Atlanta federal penitentiary this morning to begin serving the life sentence imposed on him last Wednesday night.

Major Brooke's three children, Barbara, Carolyn and John, and his sister, Mrs. Alma Sanford, left early today for San Antonio, Texas, where the children will live with their grandfather, Colonel William Brooke.

Major Brooke's wife, a former army nurse of Ford du Lac, Wis., was found beaten to death in their quarters at Fort Benning on June 8. The government obtained its conviction of Brooke on the basis of circumstantial evidence after an eight-day trial.

Czechoslovak Minister Becomes Ill in London

London—(P)—Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovak minister to London, apparently cracked today under the severe strain of watching the losing battle to preserve the country his father helped to found.

He was reported to have become suddenly ill. The legation acknowledged that he was indisposed and confined to his residence.

Masaryk is the son of the late President Thomas G. Masaryk, revered by Czechoslovaks as "father of the republic."

Britain and France Want Czechoslovakia to Yield Sudeten Region to Reich

Mussolini Says 'Italy's Place Chosen' in Event of War

SPEAKS TOMORROW Proposes Plebiscite for All Minorities Ask- ing Them

Rome—(P)—Premier Mussolini, keeping pace with swiftly moving events of the European crisis, let it be known today he would deliver an address tomorrow to be broadcast to Italy and foreign nations—his second in three days.

He spoke yesterday at Trieste, proposed plebiscites for all minorities in Czechoslovakia "which demand them"—virtual dismemberment of Czechoslovakia—as the only way to European peace. He said "Italy's place is already chosen" in event of general war.

This remark was given authoritative interpretation today by Virginio Gayda, noted fascist editor, who declared it meant Italy was ready to "take up arms at Germany's side" if the Czechoslovak crisis started a European war.

Mussolini today toured Julian Venetia following his Trieste speech and crossed the frontier into Yugoslavia—the first time he even had entered that country.

Crosses Frontier

Accompanied by Count Galeazzo Ciano, his foreign minister and son-in-law, Achille Starace, secretary of the fascist party, and other aides, he motored from Trieste to Postumia, where he visited some famous grottoes.

He crossed the frontier on foot and was received at Rakek by local civil and military Yugoslav officials for a brief exchange of compliments. He continued his journey, reentering into Italy.

Julian Venetia, containing the Alps, is part of the territory won from Austria-Hungary in the World war settlement.

The announcement today said Mussolini would speak at 5:20 p. m. (10:20 a. m., C. S. T.) at Udine, near the border of German Suetia.

Varied Interpretations

Fascists asserted today the premier's plebiscite proposal pointed the way to peace for "miserable" nations but his declaration regarding "Italy's place" in events of war drew conflicting interpretations.

Commenting on the Trieste speech, the Rome newspaper Il Tevere said:

"The near future will tell whether Europe is governed by ideological hatred or a sense of responsibility."

"But the courageous and foresighted policy of Mussolini indicates the near future will tell."

Hull Sees Lower Trade Barriers as Peace Aid

Washington—(P)—Secretary Hull said today the United States had tried to reduce international trade barriers in order to remove "pressure leading toward military action."

In a welcoming address prepared for the seventh International Management Congress, Hull said the United States had sought a return to standards of international law which promote commerce, improve management and increase wealth.

Hull was prevented by the press of work from making the address personally. It was read to the congress by George Messersmith, state department official.

Government, like management, he said, should increase international trade by removing uneconomic obstacles to its development.

"It must be plain to all of you that management can be successful when conditions are stable, when trade is secure and when there is throughout the world a basis for the exchange of goods and services."

Charges of 'Brutality' End Pigeon Shooting

Eagle River—(P)—Sheriff Julius Seyfert of Vilas county halted the final events of a pigeon shooting contest here yesterday following complaints of "brutality" filed by Walter Dehtloff, Milwaukee, director of the Wisconsin Humane society.

The contest started last Wednesday.

Spanish Foreign Minister Assails League as Futile and Lashes at 'Mistakes' of Britain and France

Geneva—(P)—White-haired Julio Alvarez del Vayo, foreign minister of government Spain, delivered today the most scathing attack on the futility of the League of Nations and the "mistakes" of Britain and France ever heard at Geneva.

The heavy-set minister, leaning across the rostrum of the great league assembly hall, accused Britain and France of responsibility for the Czechoslovak crisis.

Czechs Look to Russia for Support in Struggle Against Surrendering Sudeten Area

Moscow—(P)—Soviet Russia maintained an official silence tonight on the British-French plan for cession of Sudeten German areas of Czechoslovakia to Germany in a deal to save Europe's peace.

Some soviet circles, however, contended that developments proved what the soviet press had been saying for weeks—that British Prime Minister Chamberlain's policy consistently has been to reach an agreement with Reichsfuehrer Hitler at Czechoslovakia's expense.

Geneva—(P)—Czechoslovakia was reported today to have asked Russian officials here for the soviet union's support against delivering over the Sudeten German area to Germany.

Edouard Heidrich, Czechoslovak foreign office expert, conferred with Jacob Surits, Russian ambassador to Prague, and was said later to have seen Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar of foreign affairs.

Neither Russian nor Czech quarters, however, would say anything officially except that "this is a very delicate matter."

Prague—(P)—Amid increasing resentment throughout the country, the Czechoslovak cabinet went into session today to consider the reported Anglo-French plan for settling Europe's crises by handing the Sudeten areas over to Germany.

President Eduard Beres and his ministers started a close study of proposals in which it was believed the London and Paris governments were urging that Sudetenland—territory inhabited by the dissident German minority—be cut off and given to Germany.

Indignation over such a proposed solution of the Czechoslovak-German crises became widely evident.

From conferences begun at dawn came hints that the Prague govern-

Unions' Officers Sanction Strike Action Removes Truck Drivers' Walkout From 'Outlaw' Status

New York—(P)—Police headquarters announced today that officers of three local unions conducting a five-day-old strike of truck drivers had sanctioned the walkout, removing it from the "outlaw" status. International officers of the union were reported to have concurred in the action.

Acting Mayor Newbold Morris had sought during a day of conferences with strikers and union leaders to win official recognition of the strike, feeling that such action could lead to an early settlement of the dispute.

Some 2,000 members of the International Teamsters' union (A. F. of L.) earlier had voted to continue the strike despite the lack of approval by the locals' chiefs.

Abe Klein, directing the strike, accused local union President William L. Devery of "betraying the rank and file group" by failing to make good on a promise to obtain a halt where an authorized strike vote could be taken.

"I guess all you men were here Saturday night and heard our esteemed president in front of the acting mayor (Newbold Morris) and the press say he would hire a hall for today," Klein said. "We kept our word and kept newspaper and foodstuffs rolling, but they didn't keep their word and give us a legal strike."

Confesses Burglary and Theft of 3 Automobiles

Chicago—(P)—Detective Peter Berz said today that Emory Lounsberry, 23, formerly of Elkhorn, Wis., had confessed a recent burglary, four purse-snatchings and theft of three automobiles.

The detective said Lounsberry was arrested early today when he returned to his room, where policemen found a telephone coin box, three empty women's purses and a loaded pistol.

Berz said Lounsberry came here from Elkhorn three months ago shortly after being released from Pontiac, Ill., reformatory where he served three years for automobile larceny.

Stricken During First Sermon at Oconomowoc

Oconomowoc—(P)—The Rev. William Wagner, 62, preaching for the first time in the Lake street Methodist church here yesterday, suffered a heart attack and died a few minutes later in the parsonage. He had been pastor of the German Methodist church at Watertown until last week. He formerly lived at Ripon.

Seek General Settlement To Assure Peace In Europe

PRAGUE STILL FIRM London and Paris Gov- ernments Approve Proposals

Prague—(P)—The Czechoslovak government after an all-day session announced tonight the Franco-British proposals for turning the country's Sudeten area over to Germany were being "considered with all earnestness the situation demands."

Prague—(P)—The Czechoslovak government tonight stationed police and gendarmic patrols throughout Prague to prevent demonstrations against the Anglo-French plan for settling Europe's crisis by turning Sudeten areas over to Germany.

By the Associated Press

Great Britain and France decided today to yield to Germany's demands on Czechoslovakia in return for a general settlement to secure Europe's threatened peace.

Czechoslovaks, however, still was to be reckoned with. The Prague government gave no sign of surrendering to the fate decided for her by her friend, Britain, and her ally, France.

Acceptance of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's terms, in all or in part, probably would mean:

1. Cession to Germany without even a plebiscite of the Sudeten German area of Czechoslovakia.
2. Division of the remainder of the republic into cantons.
3. Neutralization of Czechoslovak foreign policy—abandonment of her alliances with France and soviet Russia.

New Conference Seen

The next step, unless the ever-present threat of force should throw efforts for a peace settlement on board, probably will be a second historic conference between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and British Prime Minister Chamberlain in Germany within the next few days.

The British cabinet met today after the departure of French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, who reached the momentous decision with the British in London.

The French cabinet unanimously ratified the decision. The French government ordered a halt to military preparations, leading to the belief that France would steer clear of a conflict even if the Czechoslovak government balked at accepting Hitler's terms.

While the British and French were struggling to hold down the lid of Europe's hot-blooded threats to peace, these developments added urgency to their efforts.

Italy's Place 'Chosen'

Premier Benito Mussolini, after re-affirming the strength of the Rome-Berlin axis, declared Italy's place "is already chosen" if general war was should ensue. He announced he would deliver another address tomorrow.

Poles, apparently with official approval, organized a "fighting committee" to demand annexation of the Polish Silesia area of Czechoslovakia by Poland.

Sudeten German leaders organized four columns of "free corps" troops on the German side with 1,000 men and each with a "fully equipped with every kind of modern war material."

Insurgents Repulsed

In Spain, government dispatches said a fifth insurgent effort to crash through the Ebro front in lower Catalonia had been repulsed. In Geneva, Spanish government diplomats launched a campaign to end the non-intervent agreement on the contention that attempts to get foreign troops out of Spain were futile.

WPA Association Pledges Support To Chief Executive

New York—(P)—An organization known as the WPA Employees Association of America has written to President Roosevelt and proposes to "recruit an army of 3,000,000 men and women and their dependents" to keep him in office and to vote only for those congressional candidates "willing to support your recommendations and legislative program."

Raymond B. Meisner, president of the association, last night issued a copy of the communication to Mr. Roosevelt and a copy of an answering letter describing the association as signed by David K. Niles, assistant works progress administrator, which read in part:

"The White House has referred to this administration your letter of Sept. 1. For your information we are enclosing copy of General Letter No. 90. You will note from this that WPA workers are free to organize and select representatives of their own choosing."

Meisner, in his letter to the president, attacked an existing WPA union known as the Workers alliance as bearing "the taint of communism."

7 Physicians Will Meet Officials to Discuss U. S. Plan

Plan to Confer on Method Of Coordinating Health-Welfare Activities

Chicago—(AP)—A group of seven physicians, representing the American Medical Association, projected plans today to confer with federal authorities on methods of coordinating health and welfare activities of private and government medical workers.

The physicians were named late Saturday at the last session of the association's house of delegates' two-day meeting.

They were Dr. Irvin Abell, Louisville, Ky., president of the association; Dr. Henry A. Luce, Detroit; Dr. Frederic E. Sodergren; Dr. Walter W. West, Huntington, W. Va.; Dr. Walter F. Donaldson, Pittsburgh; Dr. Fred W. Rankin, Lexington, Ky.; and Dr. Edwin H. Cary, Dallas, Texas.

Unanimous Vote

The 175 delegates, who form the governing body of the A. M. A., which represents approximately 110,000 physicians throughout the country, voted unanimously for extension of the national health program, which was proposed by President Roosevelt's inter-departmental committee on health and welfare.

They opposed vigorously, however, any plan of compulsory health insurance, contending it would be "a complicated, bureaucratic system which has no place in a democratic state" because it would lend itself "to political control and manipulation."

The delegates came out in favor of hospital service, insurance and cash indemnity insurance policies to cover, in whole or in part, the costs of emergency or prolonged illness.

president of the Thiensville State bank and immediate past president of the Thiensville Rotary club.

Mrs. Portz, wife of near Neillville, was killed Sunday when the automobile in which she and her husband were riding was struck by an Omaha Road freight train, near Chil. Her husband was taken to a Marshfield hospital, seriously injured.

Edmund's car hit a culvert on Highway 60 near Spring Green Saturday. Dr. Robert L. Fenton, co-driver, said Feldman drowned in two feet of water in a ditch after being rendered unconscious. Richard Goodrich, Madison, saved Mrs. Alma Hanson of Detroit, passenger with Feldman, from a similar fate.

The accident in which Griffith and Franz were killed occurred on Highway 12 near Hope, in Dane county last night, but Coroner Ed. A. Fischer said details of the crash were not available. He said indications were a car driven by Griffith collided head-on with a machine in which Franz was riding with his brother, Howard Franz, 18; John M. Taylor, 18, Wausau, and La Verne Lamb, 21, Wausau, who were injured. Madison General hospital reported Taylor's condition was critical. The condition of Howard Frank and Lamb was described as fair.

Worries are Over as High Chimney Topples

Superior, Wis.—(AP)—The common council no longer had the 180-foot chimney of the old Anchor Flour mill to worry about today. For months the aldermen had debated tearing it down, fearing neighboring property would be damaged. Finally a contractor was engaged to dynamite the shaft.

But Saturday a brisk wind came up off Lake Superior and blew down the chimney.

Politicians Eager to Use State Radio Stations

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Called by national radio magazines and experts "the foremost political forum in America," Wisconsin's state radio stations in the 1938 campaign have proved a boon to 43 candidates seeking nominations for their respective party tickets for state-wide offices.

For the last several weeks the air-waves in Wisconsin have hummed daily with the earnest speeches of candidates invited by two state-owned stations, WHA at the University of Wisconsin, and WLB at Stevens Point, which together make available an audience virtually statewide.

Only one candidate missed the opportunity to make a free political speech over the stations, the program director reported today and involuntarily.

The radio forum has been in operation since the 1937 state campaign, officials at the station explain, and despite the fears of those that they accept willingly.

More than 100 wagons, trailers and trucks were lined at the Green Bay and Western Railroad tracks at Shiocton when this picture was taken yesterday, waiting to load surplus cabbage which was shipped through the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. Forty carloads, about 500 tons of cabbage were shipped yesterday and nine carloads the day before. The cabbage was sold through the newly formed Appleton Cooperative Cabbage Growers association and will be distributed in areas where cabbage is not grown. ates again today as always the way out for undecided and misled nations.

If Tevere drew a sharp line between Mussolini's proposal and the policies of democracies on the Czechoslovak problem, Mussolini's proposal, the newspaper said, was one of "justice to various peoples up to now unjustly treated."

Await French Stand

"But justice is not the foundation of democracy and no nation devoted to democratic ideology has yet pronounced itself for it."

He said the character of the lineup in case of a general war, so far as Italy was concerned, depended on France's attitude.

Some Italians regarded the duce's guarded announcement as a warning that the Rome-Berlin axis would function in war as well as in peace if the German-Czechoslovak crisis exploded into war.

Others thought it meant merely that Italy's attitude would be one of "benevolent neutrality" toward Reichsfuehrer Hitler if he moved into Czechoslovakia.

"The solution to the problem which at this moment agitates Europe," he declared, "has only one name: Plebiscites."

Plebiscites For All

"Plebiscites for all nationalities which demand them, for all nationalities which were forced into what wished to be great Czechoslovakia and today reveals its organic inconsistency."

"This solution, despite the campaign of Moscow, is already penetrating the heart of European peoples. We hope that in these last hours a peaceful solution is reached."

"We wish also that if this is not possible the resulting conflict be limited and circumscribed, but if this does not happen and a lineup of universal character is brought on, then against Prague let it be known that Italy's place is already chosen."

Milwaukee — (AP) — Leonard Stromberg, filling station attendant, was robbed of $38 last night by the same gunman, he told police, who relieved him of $85 last Jan. 26. Stromberg said the man told him not to be "so fat in calling the coppers this time."

Voters to Go to Polls for Primary Election Tomorrow

With state office candidates winding up a strenuous pre-primary campaign in contrast to the rather quiet one of Outagamie county office seekers, voters will go to the polls Tuesday to nominate candidates in the Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Union parties.

A number of candidates for state offices appeared in Appleton during the last three weeks and some of them indicated they would return here to give a second talk to nominated Tuesday.

Henry Rutz, secretary of the Farmer-Labor Progressive federation, has announced that the newly formed FLFP state campaign committee of 40 is functioning without a chairman, according to an Associated Press report. The announcement of the committee's organization indicated William Bay, Kaukauna, was chairman, but Rutz explained it was intended that he be identified instead as chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Car-men of the North Western road.

Four Contests

Only four contests will take place in the county primary election, all of them being in the Republican party.

Seeking the nomination for registering of deeds are Arthur L. Collar, Democratic incumbent; Stephen M. Peeters and Edward F. Rennicke, Republicans.

Raymond P. Dohr, Democratic incumbent; William Crow and Adrian Gerrits, Republicans, are seeking the nomination for district attorney.

Candidates for sheriff are John Lappen, Republican incumbent; Joseph Versteegen, Democrat; and Robert O. Smith, Unionite.

Candidates for the assembly from the First district are Mark Catlin, Jr., Republican incumbent; Franklin C. Jesse and John E. Doherty, Republicans; Gerald S. Jolin, Democrat; and R. H. Kubitz, Progressive. Kubitz is a "write-in" candidate, having appeared in the field after the deadline for filing nomination papers.

Five Candidates

Five candidates are in the race for the assemblyman's post from the Second district. They are William M. Bohan, incumbent Democrat; William J. Ganter and James Sayers, Republicans; Anton M. Miller, Progressive; and Arthur Hoolihen, Unionite.

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, Republican incumbent, and Ray L. Feuerstein, Democrat, are in the race for county treasurer.

John E. Hantschel, Republican, is unopposed for reelection as county clerk. Sydney M. Shannon, Republican, also is unopposed for reelection as clerk of court. Robert M. Connelly, Democrat, is unopposed for reelection as county surveyor.

In the coroner's race are Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, incumbent Republican, and Russell Johnson, Democrat.

Claims Fees for Buses Too High

Oshkosh Man Declares Excessive Charges Hinder Transportation

Green Lake, Wis.—(AP)—Jay T. Putney, of Oshkosh, told the transportation section of the Wisconsin Utilities association today that furnishing of adequate mass transportation facilities has been hindered by excessive license fees on buses.

The transportation section met in conjunction with the auditing section of the association for two days of conferences.

Putney, who is president of the Oshkosh City Lines, said 500,000 persons ride buses, street cars and trackless trolleys in Wisconsin daily but few understand that "artificially set license fees" act as barriers to improved service.

He declared a city bus pays three times the license fee charged against a truck and the fee for an interurban bus is three and three quarters times the amount of a truck license.

"This high license fee must be paid on buses whether they operate only one hour or 24 hours a day," he asserted. "If license fees were based on proportion of use of a bus then all companies would buy more buses and put them into service during rush hours. As it is many buses now in service do not take in sufficient revenue to pay the licenses assessed for them."

Manitowoc—(AP)—One funeral service was held today for the six persons, five of them members of a single family, who drowned Friday night when their automobile plunged into the Manitowoc river. Interment was to be in a single plot.

The victims were Louis Vande Castle, 42; three of his smaller children, Lorraine, 8, Jean, 7, and Donald, 5; a married daughter, Mrs. Helen Wiczek, 22, and her husband, Martin Wiczek, 32.

G-Men Search for Abductors of Two Women at Hudson

Trio Abandons Stolen Car After Kidnaping Mother and Daughter

Hudson, Wis.—(AP)—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation today were on the trail of three men who abandoned their stolen car at St. Paul after abducting a Hudson woman and her daughter and leaving them bound by the roadside.

Their victims, Mrs. C. J. Reiter and Julieann Reiter, 19, were recovering at their home from the experience.

Confronted by the trio as they returned from downtown Hudson Saturday night, the women were forced back into their car as they stepped from it at their home. They said one of the men drew a gun.

After half an hour of aimless driving, the men stopped the car near the farm of Charles Ward, six miles east of Hudson. There the women's hands and feet were bound with picture wire. Julieann freed herself, helped her mother loosen her bonds, and went to a farm home for aid.

The car, apparently undamaged and with its contents including $100 worth of photographic equipment and $150 worth of fishing tackle unharmed, was found in a residential section of St. Paul by police yesterday.

Mr. Reiter, publisher of the Hudson Star-Observer, drove it home. The FBI men entered the case because of transportation of the stolen car across the Minnesota-Wisconsin state line.

A tavern near Hudson was held up and robbed shortly after the abduction Saturday.

ment, although hard-pressed diplomatically, would stand firmly against territorial revision.

The government committee of the Slovak people's party convened at Bratislava and although there was no official announcement on the discussions, it was expected the Slovak conferees would offer support against dismemberment.

The permanent interim committee of parliament, headed by the president of the chamber of deputies, met to ratify the government's declaration of a state of emergency throughout the nation.

The official press bureau issued a statement saying the government was studying the Anglo-French decision to meet Adolf Hitler's demands "in the light of recent statements by President Eduard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza in a radio address yesterday said flatly there would be no plebiscite."

PUTSCH UNSUCCESSFUL

Eger, Czechoslovakia.—(AP)—Sudeten Germans disclosed today they had planned to put down the Czechoslovak government to start immediately after Adolph Hitler's speech at Nurnberg last Monday night.

The putsch failed, however, when the government quickly put down "rebellions" Monday night and Tuesday and clamped martial law on Sudeten districts.

The Sudeten said the rank and file had expected Hitler to send troops across the border after his defiant declarations. When he did not come and Sudeten leader Konrad Henlein fled to Germany, the Sudeten were left with a feeling of bewilderment and a tendency to hold Henlein responsible for bungling.

Both German non-party members and Czech residents in the Sudeten areas expressed belief the abortive putsch had not split the Sudeten party's ranks as government quarters had indicated.

Henlein, on the other side of the frontier, now is asserting his leadership again. Despite the warrant out for his arrest on treason charges, Henlein says he comes into Czechoslovakia every day and is keeping his organization alive.

The Sudeten German "free corps," organized by Henlein on the German side of the border and now said to number 10,000, attacked a Czechoslovak customs house at Neuhauzen yesterday, and seriously wounded at least one Czech guard.

Henlein has been reaching the masses through German radio stations and now is building a station of his own on the frontier. In addition, the Sudeten courier service which functioned between here and the Reich before Henlein's flight is still operating.

These couriers, like Henlein himself, cross the frontier at night.

Phil Asks Followers to Bring Out Large Vote

Madison—(AP)—Governor Philip F. LaFollette, candidate for reelection to a fourth term on the progressive ticket, issued a statement today asking Progressives to bring out a large party vote in tomorrow's primary election.

"I have great confidence in the ability of our citizens to select properly qualified candidates for office if they will take enough interest to go to the polls and vote," the governor said.

"A large primary vote will not only help toward nomination of the best candidates, but will also help toward a Progressive victory in the November election."

"I am depending on you and your county organization to get out the Progressive vote on Tuesday," the chief executive told his campaign workers.

"Make sure that your family, your friends and your neighbors go to the polls and vote for Progressive candidates for state, national and county offices."

PHILLIP F. LA FOLLETTE

Madison — Phillip F. LaFollette, governor, and the first man in the history of Wisconsin to become a candidate for a fourth term in that office.

... born in Madison 41 years ago, he has been in politics ever since. As a boy he romped through the state capitol with Brother Bob during his father's terms as governor. ... went to Washington when his father became a U. S. senator, got a part of his education there. ... B. A. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1919, law in 1922. ... in 1918 he was a second lieutenant in the infantry. ... served as district attorney of Dane county for two years, 1925 and 1926, as did his father before him. ... followed in the elder LaFollette's footsteps in running for office at an early age, but missed one step. ... Phil ran for governor after his term as district attorney. His father went to Congress first. ...

... won election as a Progressive Republican, the youngest governor in America. ... lost the Republican nomination in 1932 to Walter J. Kohler, who in turn lost to Democrat Schmiedeman. ... after a term as a law teacher at the university, and a trip to Russia, Phil came back in 1934 and organized the new Progressive party, which that year sent him back to the governor's chair. ... failed to have control of the legislature, however, in 1935 and his ambitious program was largely scuttled. ... reelected in 1936, he possessed complete control of the next legislature, and passed an extensive program which he will defend on the stump this year. ... after friendly relations with Mr. Roosevelt during five years, Phil early this year surprised the nation's politicians with the formation of a new party, the National Progressives of America, headed by himself. ... most observers found his vague platform conservative, although it advocated a nationalization of banking and credit, as his father before him had urged when he ran for president 14 years ago. ... short, slightly built, nervous, tireless, Phil is one of a few men who have been governor of Wisconsin for three terms. ... A fluent speaker, he probably makes more speeches than any other man in Wisconsin. ... married to a university classmate. ... has three children. ...

4 Issues Likely To Cause Disputes At Next Session

Social Security, Labor Act, Farm Program May Result in Wrangles

Washington—(AP)—Four issues which appear likely to cause wrangles in congress next winter of shaping up as sources of controversy in this fall's election campaign.

They are expansion of the federal social security program, revision of the Wagner labor act, application of the administration's farm program, and the nation's general economic condition.

Political orators are placing more and more emphasis on these points as interest in Republican Democratic races mounts with the waning of the primary election season.

President Roosevelt said recently in a speech on the anniversary of the social security act that benefits of the federal program should be extended to a greater number of persons. In some quarters here it is reported that administration officials are considering placing domestic and agricultural workers under the law.

Pensions Became Issues

The prominence of old age pensions as a campaign issue in several states also foreshadows much debate on that particular phase of social security.

The extent to which revision of the Wagner act will figure as a political issue may be determined in part by the amount of labor union activity during the campaign. Most informed persons here agree it will be one of the major problems before the new congress.

The American Federation of Laborists it has not received a fair break in the law is now administered, while the CIO wants to keep the act unchanged.

There have been demands from some lawmakers that the crop control program enacted by the 1938 congress be revised to include a domestic allotment system.

Topic Of Debate

Operation of the farm program has been a topic of debate all summer throughout the midwest and the southern cotton belt. Speakers at a Republican rally in Indiana tied it in with the general economic situation, asserting administration policies had retarded both agriculture and industry.

Administration officials, on the other hand, contend they have been ironing out any inequalities in the crop control set-up. They argue too, that improved business conditions are a reply to criticisms about the president's economic program.

One issue which so far has not been paramount in the campaign but which may be revived in the next session of congress is government reorganization. The senate passed the measure last spring, but the house shelved it.

Athletic Association Will Plan Intramurals

The Girls Athletic association of Appleton High school will meet this afternoon at the high school to discuss the intramural program for the year. An explanation of the point system of awards will be given at the meeting.

Lawrence Fraternities, Sororities Important in College Social Program

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

Since 94 per cent of the Lawrence college men students and 71 per cent of the women belong to Greek letter groups, fraternities and sororities play an important role in the campus social scene.

Formal rushing takes place the first week of school and therefore, with the exception of freshmen week activities, one of the first impressions a newcomer to the campus receives is a panorama of teas, dinners, dances, corsages and pledge pins for the girls and smokers, dinners, trophy cups and pledge buttons for the boys.

There are six social fraternities and six fraternities at Lawrence, and consequently rushing rules and regulations must be in effect in order to carry on the competition for new members with fairness. All of the women's groups and all but one of the men's fraternities are national.

The sororities are governed by Pan-Hellenic council which is composed of representatives from each group. Their presidents are as follows: Alpha Delta Pi, Betty Morrison, Elmwood Park, Ill.; Kappa Alpha Theta, Betty Ann Johnson, Mayville; Delta Gamma, Katherine Pitman, Chicago; Kappa Delta, Jane Houts, Chicago; Zeta Tau Alpha, Jean Doubleday, Appleton; and Alpha Chi Omega, Mary Forest, West Allis.

Council Rules

Fraternities come under the jurisdiction of the Interfraternity council which is composed of the presidents of the six men's groups. They are as follows: Phi Delta Theta, Robert Van Nostrand, Wauwatosa; Sigma Phi Epsilon, John Bodilly, Green Bay; Phi Kappa Tau, Spencer Johnson, Mayville; Delta Sigma Tau, Robert Smith, Racine; Delta Tau Delta, Thomas Jacobs, Chicago; and Beta Theta Pi, Michael Gallo, Milwaukee.

Sorority rushing began Sunday when all of the groups gave teas at the homes of alumnae or patronesses. For the rest of the week there will be three parties each day at specified Appleton restaurants or hotels until Friday when all of the groups will entertain in the evening, and the preference banquets will take place Saturday night. Truce period, in which there is no communication between members and rushers, extends from 9 o'clock Saturday night, Sept. 24, to 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Sept. 25. The rules state that no prospective Lawrentian shall be rushed until she has fully matriculated, and that conservatory students are eligible for membership in all sororities, also that there shall be no open bidding from 5 o'clock Sunday, Sept. 25, to 4:30 Wednesday, Sept. 28. No rusher may accept more than one invitation for a specified time, and no dates for rushing functions may be broken.

5-Party Limit

Each sorority is limited to five parties during rushing week including the Sunday tea, and other parties are to be three in town at approved places and a formal preference banquet.

Rushing for men opened Sunday and closes Sept. 25. For the first six dates, namely, Sunday and Monday evenings, Tuesday noon and evening, Wednesday and Thursday evening, each rusher is to have one date at each of the six fraternities. The dates are arranged by an intermediary. On Friday the fraternities notify the intermediary of the men they wish to rush for optional dates on Friday night, Saturday noon and Sunday evening.

All rushing activities are staged. Charges of violation of rushing rules are investigated by a faculty board of three elected by the Interfraternity council. Pledging of freshmen takes place Monday, Sept. 26, but upperclassmen may be pledged between 9 o'clock and noon Sunday, Sept. 25.

Kaukauna to Vote On Refinance Plan For School Debt

Referendum Tuesday Involves Bond Issue For $82,000

Kaukauna — Kaukauna will go to the polls tomorrow and in addition to the regular primary nominations will vote on a referendum of its own. The question before the voters is whether Kaukauna shall issue bonds to the amount of $82,000 to retire a similar amount of indebtedness with the state land commission.

City officials have urged citizens to vote their approval, stating that such action would mean a saving of at least $8,000. The bonds now outstanding with the land commission are bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent, the new issue will pay at the most 3 per cent, and will save money in this way. The original bonds are those sold to pay for the high school gymnasium and auditorium.

Long Battle

It has taken much work on the part of the city officials to get the approval of the land commission for the referendum, only receiving permission after it had been refused several times. Some opinion in the city last week seemed to be "no more bonds of any kind" with many not realizing that the issue was not a new one but merely a general refunding one so that cheaper interest might be paid on an existing debt, officials said.

The ballot to be marked by the voters tomorrow will read: "Shall the city of Kaukauna issue its general obligation bonds in the principal sum of $82,000, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 3 per cent per annum for the purpose of paying and retiring a like principal amount of outstanding indebtedness of said city issue to evidence a loan from the commissioners of the public land of the state of Wisconsin at the rate of 4 per cent per year?"

Three years ago, the increasing work of the pastorate and Rev. Moecker's health made it necessary that an assistant be engaged and the Rev. G. F. Barthel was called last spring when Rev. Moecker resigned. The Rev. Mr. Barthel was retained as his successor.

After an auction sale Sept. 28, to dispose of their household effects, the Rev. and Mrs. Moecker will leave for Milwaukee where they will make their home with their daughter, Mrs. Richard Eberle.

For the last several months Mr. Schumaker has had charge of the extra crew which has been resurfacing the tracks in this vicinity and north out of Milwaukee.

John Wieselke of Stockbridge was taken ill suddenly while working at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Depies, Thursday evening. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton and submitted to an operation for appendicitis late Thursday night.

Clapper Says Republicans Won't Win Votes With 'Blank Slate' Plan

Washington — Republicans are also drawing their lessons from the series of clear-cut defeats which Roosevelt has suffered in recent senatorial elections.

The Republican national committee would like to impress upon party workers that the primaries show first of all that Roosevelt is not invincible. Republicans have been suffering from an inferiority complex. Whatever they might say publicly, they have secretly regarded Roosevelt as a master politician. They have felt that it was difficult to beat "four billion dollars," as Vice-President Garner put it. They have felt that with Roosevelt carrying millions on relief, tossing bridges and dams freely around the country, it was impossible to beat him in a popular vote. In every fight since 1932 they have felt licked before they started.

These primaries have shown that if the Republicans can't beat Roosevelt, at least the Democrats can. They have shown that federal officeholders, relievers, promises of bridges, and the magic of that radio voice do not add up to inevitable victories.

The primaries have shown that the federal officeholders will break their alliance to Roosevelt Raymond Clapper and side with their own local machines, as was conspicuously demonstrated in Georgia.

They have shown that the relievers are not deliverable as a bloc. It isn't Roosevelt that gets the man and his family of two or three or five voters on relief. It is his local politician who in Maryland most likely was part of the Tydings machine.

Roosevelt's promise of a bridge on the eastern shore didn't make a dent, except as it affronted many voters. In politics the payoff is not unwelcome but it must not be offered too crudely. Even the floater who sells his vote still has some vestige of pride left and is said to prefer that the dollar bill be folded neatly and pressed inconspicuously into his hand along with the friendly handshake of the precinct worker.

Sometimes Magic Radio Voice Loses Its Power

Finally, it has been demonstrated that there are times when that magic radio voice loses its persuasive power and becomes the harsh and resented command of a carpetbagger who would deprive the free states of their freedom.

So when Democrats can stand up on their hind legs and beat their own president, Republicans are encouraged to throw off their inferiority complex and are made to realize that they too, can learn how to win friends and influence people.

Thus the lesson for the Republicans is plain. It can be done. But they will have to reacquire the knack of it. They lost it when they went out of office and ever since then they have been awkward and inept, saying the wrong things at the right time.

Republicans Booklet Too Thorough in Spots

True to form, just when the lessons of these primaries are being taken to heart, Republicans issue a campaign booklet called "Promise and Performance." It is a thorough job, but too thorough in spots. For instance, the section entitled "control of business" consists of two pages. Two promises are quoted, one from Roosevelt's Commonwealth club speech in San Francisco during his 1932 campaign, when he said government regulation should be used only as a last resort when private initiative has failed, and the other from his letter to Roy Hovard in 1935 promising a breathing spell.

Then, under "performance," Republicans present a list of 37 laws "interfering with the economic functions and private management of American business." In this blacklist the Republicans include the securities acts, TVA, reciprocal trade agreements act, federal alcohol control, the public utility act, the civil war aeronautics authority act, and a number of others.

City Home Operation Costs $403 in August

Cost of operating the city home during August totaled $403.41, according to F. A. W. Hammond, city relief director. A total of $99.51 was spent for provisions, 50 cents for clothing, $7.85 for drugs, physicians and burial, $4.53 for household supplies and $20.75 for miscellaneous articles. During the month, the city home saved $128.25 by using its own farm products. Nineteen persons were cared for at the home during the month.

EKERN, AMLIE, THE SOCIALISTS AND THE POST-CRESCENT

Last week Messrs. William Bay and Samuel Sigman addressed a joint communication to the Post-Crescent because of its editorial on Mr. Ekern and requested publication in the People's Forum.

Because of a rule prohibiting the use of the Forum for pure advertising, and without which experience has shown it would be flooded with mere propaganda, the office declined to print the letter in the Forum unless the advertising paragraphs were deleted.

Messrs. Bay and Sigman would not consent to this arrangement and prevailed upon the Farmer-Labor and Progressive Federation of Outagamie county to print the letter as an advertisement in last Friday's issue.

The publishers of the Post-Crescent are of the opinion that the rule was too narrowly or rigorously applied, that the letter should have been published in its entirety in the Forum even though parts of it were propaganda, and are therefore returning to the interested parties the amount they paid for the advertisement.

All of which, however, sort of opens up the controversy.

We should think by now that our readers, including these estimable gentlemen, should know that the Post-Crescent is certainly not a Progressive newspaper any more than it is a Republican or Democratic one. Its sole purpose in our political life is to print the truth and to make such bona fide comment upon the news as seems justified from day to day.

Since it has been lashed, and sometimes, furiously, by both Democratic and Republican leaders, whom we may designate as experts in the business, the efforts of Messrs. Bay and Sigman are not altogether new.

Nor has the Post-Crescent ever resorted to a mask such as used by Socialists to hide their attempt to run the Progressive party. We refer, of course, to the Farmer-Labor and Progressive Federation, an outfit that used every word in its title excepting the truthful one of Socialist, and then started out on a virtual political conspiracy to try to control the state of Wisconsin and its 3 million people with 40,000 Socialist votes.

The limping FLPF commenced this campaign by trying its best to get Mr. Hoan, avowed Socialist at Milwaukee, to run for the senate on the Progressive ticket. The idea looked so raw to Mr. Hoan that he refused to go on with it. Their next choice was Mr. Amlie. That alone should be enough to condemn the gentleman. But there is so much more in his own record it may even be forgotten.

When Mr. Amlie became a candidate the Post-Crescent looked over his record carefully. It found these things:

(1) As a congressman he gave heart and hand to Red Spain even as she was slaying churchmen by the thousands, mutilating sisters of charity and destroying ancient edifices.

(2) His brother, about 45 years of age and old enough to know better, actually went to Spain in order to uphold the blood-soaked hands of the assassins.

(3) He introduced a bill in congress which he has advanced as his pride and joy. It relates to industry. The Post-Crescent sometime ago received from its Washington correspondent an outline of this bill. This correspondent, who has been criticized because of liberality of political view, declared that no one could get any meaning out of the measure, a fact which seems to have made Mr. Amlie topnotch with the Socialists.

The Post-Crescent concluded from a careful survey of the facts that he was another of those many glib gentlemen, big on talk, broad with smile, heavy with denunciation, who have, together, succeeded in keeping 12 million Americans unemployed and a total of about 40 million feeding in one way or another out of the public treasury.

The Post-Crescent is deeply attached to what it believes to be one of the soundest of principles in our public life—that every party should put forth its best men.

There wouldn't be any Progressive party today if, thirty years ago, or twenty or ten, leaders of liberalism in this country had been on the Amlie order. It was men of character like Ekern whom the Socialists have been unable to bully or browbeat, who put the Progressives where they are.

As to the fairness of the Post-Crescent in dealing with all political parties we might remind these gentlemen that the Progressive standard bearer, Governor LaFollette, has openly stated from the public rostrum in this county that his idea of a fair and square newspaper was the Post-Crescent.

We are sure that one of the greatest sins we ever committed in the minds of these gentlemen was exposing the fact that there was practically nothing behind the FLPF excepting Socialists. And a newspaper must be reactionary indeed that gets the facts to the public concerning shams of that character.

To compare Amlie to Ekern is like comparing "Sockeye" Simpson or "General" Coxey to men like Senators Wheeler, Borah or Norris.

IT IS LAFOLLETTE OR HENRY

There is only one issue in the Wisconsin contest for governor. It is Mr. LaFollette.

The case is no exception. Every time a man has served and seeks re-election he becomes the issue, ordinarily entitled to reelection if he suits the people and earning the back door if he does not.

Back in 1934 Governor Schmiedeman was the issue but the Republicans with their fiddling efforts and thick-browed pride gave enough votes to Mr. Greene to divide a strength that really belonged to Schmiedeman, and Mr. LaFollette walked into the office.

It was this Hail Heil sort of republicanism that defeated Mr. Schmiedeman, an excellent public servant who deserved better upon his record.

The same tantrum was repeated in 1936 excepting that, losing a well known candidate like Mr. Schmiedeman, the Democrats dropped into the cellar, polling enough votes to just get into somebody else's way. We incline to the opinion that Governor LaFollette in 1936 would have had a clear majority had there been but two tickets in the field because he came so close to it and it appears unreasonable to suppose that Mr. Wiley, the Republican candidate, could have garnered all the ballots wasted in voting for the Democrat. But that is only our guess, no better than anyone else's.

No one is going to have his way about everything in politics or government. The only ones who are trying the Prussian stand are men like Fox and Heil. There is no call whatever from the people of Wisconsin for these men. They are intruders pure and simple, just as purple with pride as any other strutter. On the other hand there is a loud and sustained call from both Democratic and Republican camps for Mr. Henry.

The LaFollettes created their own party upon the belief that they were thus moving toward genuine majority rule by inviting together from the old parties all those who appeared to support the same general policies. Since the Progressive party has thus become an accomplished fact there is no possible way of obtaining majority rule except by a coalition of the sort now proposed.

In our judgment majority rule is itself worth more than any issue in this campaign or any personality in it. It may mean a fourth term for Mr. LaFollette. If it means his defeat yet will the people rule.

Of course, it must fail if the people are unable to see through the pewee, dog-in-the-manger politics that supports the sham campaigns of both Fox and Heil.

THE PRESS AND THE HINES MISTRIAL

The occasion has arisen for another purge, this time of the press.

For every paper from Maine to Oregon that has followed the testimony and watched the Hines trial is convinced that the breakdown in judicial procedure evidenced by Justice Pecora is not only serious but shameful.

It has been difficult to even secure the most technical of lawyers to claim that there was anything approaching a toehold for this astonishing ruling.

Lawyers in various articles are also pointing out in detail that the Dewey question was right from every viewpoint and obviously proper. They direct attention to the fact that Hines' attorney on direct examination asked the witness, who had been an assistant prosecutor under the allegedly corrupt Dodge, to "tell the entire story of that March grand jury. They say that it is one of the simplest rules of law that cross-examination may always extend to the subject dealt with by the direct examination.

So the question is what was meant by "tell the entire story?" Mr. Dewey thought that "entire" meant "entire," but Justice Pecora says that "entire" means only "partial." The reasoning is odd and headachy but that is exactly what he says. His excuse is that when the Hines attorney asked for "the entire story" he only meant that part of the story relating to the policy racket so that Mr. Dewey not only got his feet into it but his head as well by not having a seer or prophet at his side to tell him that "entire" is a naughty, slippery little word that only means what is in counsel's mind who uses it.

And while this judge was so unctuously talking about fair trials and the duty to protect the defendant and that the jury's mind had been poisoned the jurors who were interviewed after the trial were the most astonished ones in the courtroom to think they had been prejudiced unchangeably against the defendant by a question that was never answered even though it were mixed up with several million other questions.

And now, does anyone suppose, that immediate steps will be taken to remedy and therefore prevent the repetition of such a stolid misadventure? Will the lords and rulers in the land, empowered by the constitution to fix the procedural power of judges and even to grant appeals to the state, exercise their function?

Hardly anything like that.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—This is the first of a series of "guest columns." The "guest columnist" will be myself. It's the silliest thing I ever heard of.

My physician observing with alarm the terrible state of my nerves, has ordered me to relax. I explained rather patiently that I could not relax, on account of being under the painful necessity of earning a livelihood. The physician, however, has been adamant. I shall therefore relax, not on my own account but on his. Never make your physician unhappy is my motto.

With this in mind I have schemed out the "Be-Your-Own-Guest-Columnist" program. It works this way: I thumb through my scrapbook and yank out some of the pieces I wrote for the papers back in the days before the column was born, and reprint them.

The idea isn't entirely my own. Some people with memories longer than mine have suggested that a few of the essays, first written as a part of the news of the day, might be worth re-reading. I do not say they are, but I do say it's a nice way for a fellow to get a vacation.

For a starter, here is a bit of "mood" writing that was turned out last December after hours of wandering on the Bowery:

It will be nice to crawl into a warm bed tonight—but it isn't going to be easy to sleep. A person who feels smug should never go down to the Bowery. The bums will take the smugness out of you. They'll make you feel like a crook for wearing warm clothes, eating good food and sleeping in a warm bed.

Sure, they're bums. No sense in making martyrs of failures. They're bums. They're no good. They're social parasites; sure, that's it—social parasites.

Ten thousand of them! Ten thousand men without homes or money or ambition. Ten thousand bums; and they shuffle along, going nowhere, thinking no thoughts.

People who have troubles of their own shouldn't go down to the Bowery. Trouble looks pretty down there. A fellow feels pretty cheap worrying about trivial things compared with these men who have lost everything, including hope.

Of course, for the bum there is always booze. Call it booze, but it is really a vile, cloudy liquid that is hardly fit for an alcohol rub. They drink it. They think it is great. It makes them forget they haven't any bed. Who do they stare so? I hate eyes that stare. I hate eyes that are mirrors of misery. I hate eyes that look right through me, pleading and castigating.

Is it a crime for me to wear an overcoat when it is cold? Was it so awfully wrong that I had a steak for dinner? Is it a sin to have coins in my pocket? Stop staring at me!

Just like I tell you, these fellows are bums. They get drunk. They have no pride. A flop-house is their paradise. A grating over a warm air vent is contentment—with a dozen men piled together, stupefied with drink, snoring, moving restlessly, tumbling in their stupor.

They drink anything and everything. Bay rum to them is like haw sauternes. 29. They call it Bayzo. A bottle costs a dime.

Bayzo brings oblivion. Drink it down, Bum! A meal, a job or a bed won't matter now—and besides, it makes a guy smell sweet like a barber shop.

Ten thousand poor men! Ten thousand helpless, hopeless, homeless, aimless men; broken; lost.

Winters are worst. The winter's cold gets them. The cop on the beat stumbles over a silent form. Mostly it is a sleeping man. Sometimes, when it is bitter cold and the Bayzo has done its work, it is a dead man.

It isn't important. These fellows are bums. Good riddance. They'll tell you so themselves.

Bums shuffling along. They stare. I wish they wouldn't stare. I didn't do anything. It wasn't my fault. It's no crime to wear an overcoat when it's cold, is it? Or eat meat? Or have friends? You'd think even having friends was a crime, the way they stare.

I'm going to bed. A nice warm bed. It was dumb of me to come down to the Bowery, anyway. A man's a fool to get emotional. Can I help it if people are poor?

I'm going to bed. I hope I can get some sleep.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Monday, Sept. 22, 1913

Snow between 7:30 and 5:45 Saturday night established a September weather record. It was the first time since weather observations had been taken here that snow had fallen during September.

Hoffman Bros. new bakery, equipped with sanitary and modern machinery opened that morning for business. A large brick oven of the latest type had been installed.

Emery Greunk, James Donnelly and Raymond Hartung left for Madison that morning to attend the University of Wisconsin.

F. J. McCormick had been promoted to the engineering department of the Wisconsin Telephone company and was to make his home at Milwaukee. D. E. Gaffney, former district commercial agent will succeed McCormick as local manager and E. P. Parish was to take over Gaffney's work.

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, Sept. 17, 1928

One of the highest marks of the year was set at Appleton pumping and filtration plant during August when 64,310,000 gallons of water was treated. The amount, however, was about 10,000 gallons less than was treated the previous year during the same month.

Coach George Christoph, who left Neenah the previous week to take up his duties as coach at Emporia, Kas., college, had 60 men out for practice. Hot weather was interfering with drills, it was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Eb Harwood were elected to office in the Fox River Valley Photographers' association at a meeting and banquet at Green Bay the previous week. Mr. Harwood was elected president and Mrs. Harwood, secretary and treasurer. W. T. Ross and J. J. Froelich of Appleton were among the other 75 persons present.

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell

THE CHIMNEY SWIFT

The chimney swift can never rest
If it is too far from its nest.

Home is a haven, and it clings
To all its common happenings.

Though other birds may cleave the sky,
It does not venture very high.

But perches on home's chimney where
A peaceful prospect stretches fair.

There may be other paths to roam,
But I would rather stay at home

And choose among Life's choicest gifts
Contentment like the chimney swift's.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—How old is "old"? That is an ancient chestnut raised again by President Roosevelt when he endorsed Rep. David J. Lewis of Maryland for the senate.

In advancing his proposal for revision of the supreme court, President Roosevelt referred to those members above 70 years as "elderly."

When he sailed over to the "east shore" of Maryland to aid white-haired Representative Lewis, he described him as "well along in mature middle age."

Representative Lewis, who was defeated, is 69.

The President endorsed Senator William Gibbs McAdoo of California for re-election. He is close to 75.

On the other hand, when President Roosevelt cracked down on Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina as a man who was living in the past, South Carolina, despite Smith's 74 years, thought him young enough for another six-year term in the senate.

East Is East

Senator Glass of Virginia was very much alive and very much elected when he was 77 and Senator Borah was awarded another six-year term when he was 71.

The deeper you go into the age puzzle the more complicated it becomes.

While the President was working for Davey Lewis on the east shore, the electorate on the west shore was defeating Senator McAdoo. In California many Democratic voters seem to think a man is getting old at 50. That is the age when their proposed age-relief program would take effect.

That plan would entitle an unemployed man of 50 and up to a handout of scrip every Thursday. Sheridan Downey, who defeated McAdoo while advocating the age-relief program, is 52, old enough to share the benefits—if the plan is put into effect and he loses his job.

U. S. Services Vary

The army and navy retire their colonels, admirals and generals at 64 and the civil service pensions its help at 70. For a number of years federal district and circuit court judges have been permitted to retire at 70 on full pay and the post congressmen have approved extending similar retirement privileges to the supreme court. Two members have taken advantage of it.

In his message accompanying the court-revision plan, President Roosevelt said that "in exceptional cases, of course, judges, like other men, retain to an advanced age full mental and physical vigor. Those not so fortunate are often unable to perceive their own infirmities."

At a later press conference he suggested that some men were "old" at 40 and others "young" at 80—bracketed them obviously designed to include Justice Brandeis. He is one of the liberalist judges on the court but was reported offended at the President's comments about elderly judges.

After all, a man probably is as old as his arches.

People's Forum

The Appleton Post-Crescent cordially invites its readers to use this column for an expression of their views on matters of public interest. Contributors are subject only to the restriction that there shall be no libel and no attacks on individuals, but as an evidence of good faith, the Post-Crescent invites the public to make extensive use of this column.

NEED FACTORIES FOR JOBS

Editor Post-Crescent—Sales mean jobs! You mean jobs mean sales. How on earth does one expect any person or family to buy when they have no money? I am a person who could earn his money in Appleton then he would feel like spending his money in Appleton. There is scarcity of jobs in Appleton! I am perfectly certain that I know the reason why. We passed the Four Wheel Drive onto Clintonville and did not admit several other factories and business concerns in to Appleton. I wonder why. Plenty of people make their own depression but they are in the small minority.

There are plenty of people left who would be willing, even eager, to work if they had the opportunity. I don't think a few, or even one, factory would sully the cleanliness and beauty of our city. It certainly would take a lot of people off relief and feed them well too. It would also create sales because the people who are getting the necessities of life, free, from the city could then be able to buy them.

Mrs. T. F.

MAKE IT HARDER

Washington—G. Marriage was becoming an increasingly difficult state of bliss to achieve in the United States during 1937.

Three states and the District of Columbia raised the minimum marriage age for one or both parties. Four states and the District asked a new waiting period between the application for a license and its issuance, and New York now requires a waiting period between the issuance of the license and the marriage. Measures requiring health certificates were passed in five states and Puerto Rico.

SUGGESTS SUCRERS

Milwaukee, Wis. — G. — C. F. Schmidt found his enjoyment of summer park concerts spoiled by persons who talked, applauded and generally were noisy.

Schmidt sent $3 the other day to the park committee with the request that it be used to start a fund for purchase of all-day concert tickets to be distributed to future concert audiences. That, he said, should keep them quiet.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.; and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m.; from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m.; and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Cheerfulness will overcome sales resistance this day. If you have an idea or a commodity to sell then a genial manner and a countenance displaying plenty of animation, will help you to get satisfactory results. It will pay to look on the sunny side of life, so cast pessimism from your mind. Be careful that vanity does not interfere with your making a common-sense concession. You may find the average person you meet extremely talkative, and it might pay you to listen and say very little. This is a poor day to depend on anyone else doing anything that you can do yourself. Promises will be glibly made, but very few of them are likely to be lived up to. Through some social activity you may learn something to your advantage, so think twice before turning down any invitation extended to you. Married and engaged couples, and those who are discussing the possibilities of a matrimonial future together, should: "Remember this, that very little is needed to make a happy life."

If a woman and September 20 is your birthday, your future happiness or unhappiness will be largely of your own making, so live your life and govern your actions in such a way that you will have no reason to reproach yourself. Be wise enough to know your true friends frequently will condemn the very things your enemies praise. Too many people born on this date get into trouble by ridiculing the babies of their friends, and everything that they say or do. If you seek virtues to praise rather than faults to condemn, your life will be much happier. As a purchasing agent, professional shopper, public stenographer, accountant, singer, artist, journalist or actress you may have a run of luck that will enable you to bask in the sunshine of prosperity. There are many indications that you will be very happily married.

The child born on September 20 must not be encouraged in wanting to have its own way. This youngster's school teachers ought to have the parents' fullest cooperation, particularly whenever discipline is

Personal Health Talks

GRIMACE WHILE YOU LISTEN

Correspondent says he caught his wife indulging in physiognomical grimaces before her mirror. At first he thought she was making faces at him, but when he asked what she had against him this time she told him to go away and not disturb her while she was taking her ear exercises. After the exercise period she explained that a friend of hers had been patronizing an ear specialist at $5 a call, for inflation of Eustachian tubes, pneumatic massage of ear drums, etc., to relieve her deafness, but without noticeable results. Then the lady wrote "O! Doc Brady."

Don't they all, sooner or later? The O! Doc must have been riled off the bowling green that day, for he sent the lady an answer and recommended that she perform daily facial gymnastics.

The lady, remembering to enclose a three-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope received her reply and faithfully followed the O! Doc's suggestion, and, lo and behold, after some weeks of it she began to hear better and now hears almost as well as ever.

I can neither affirm nor deny the truth of the story.

Every one has noticed the unconscious grimaces people make, when trying to see something which is not very distinct. Most of us have noticed also the grimaces that go with straining to hear words in the midst of blurring noises.

Donkeys can wiggle their ears and shake their scalps. Therefore some persons who can do it do not do it. The earnest endeavor to do it in a systematic fashion, while sitting before a mirror and studying the action of the muscles, is a good way to prevent and relieve involved. With education advantages, children born on this date frequently become very successful.

If a man and September 20 is your natal day, you should always be able to accomplish anything you desire, that has merit. Farming, singing, acting, medical or legal work, painting, publishing, writing and selling may provide you with the means of making large sums of money.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Forfeits Baby Swallowed

Cutting up a chicken I used a kitchen knife. Later noticed piece of head of a pin was chipped off the knife blade. If that piece was swallowed by one eating the chicken what effect would it have? (Mrs. A. R.)

Answer—Almost certainly no untoward effect. The particle would be promptly enmeshed in mucus and fecal matter and passed from the intestine in the natural way within 48 hours.

Uses of Quinine

I would like to obtain if possible a copy of an article you printed some months ago on the uses of quinine. Incidentally I find your column helpful in my practice. (W. J. R., M.D.)

Answer—Send a three-cent-stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for monograph "Quinine in Modern Medicine."

Exercise Now and Then

Here is one "old geek" who will tell the world your advice is beneficial. I'll roll a dozen somersaults first thing every morning and it puts me in fine humor for the day. How about some good setting-up exercises for a man who sits at a desk all day? (H. R.)

Answer—Send ten-cent coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for "The Last Brady Symphony."

Democracy Can't Function Under New Deal System

Simpler for Party to Win Votes Through Rubber Stamp Legislators

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—"They were afraid of democracy."

President Roosevelt, in his speech commemorating the New York state ratification of the federal constitution, spoke of men and women "then as now" distrustful of "their own ability to meet changed conditions."

When he used "then" he meant, of course, the minority, who, 150 years ago, did not want to see the constitution ratified.

When Mr. Roosevelt used the word "now" to refer to the present-day timorous, it is being pointed out here that he overlooked his own henchmen and his own spokesmen, in fact his own speeches of March, 1937, in which he publicly declared that it was too much trouble to amend the constitution and that any 13 states could easily block an amendment.

The group who "are afraid of democracy" today, it is being said in reply, are those who decline to use the provisions of the constitution itself to meet changing conditions and are distrustful of the people's vote if concrete issues of constitutional change should be put before them for a "yes" or "no" decision.

Thus, in the last five years, not a single constitutional amendment has been passed by congress for submission to the people of the United States. It takes a two-thirds vote of both houses to submit an amendment to the constitution, and yet the Democratic administration has had the unprecedented strength of more than two-thirds in both the house and the senate. After that step, three-fourths of 25 of the states of the union must ratify. The Republicans in the last few years have controlled only about seven states and the remaining 41 have been Democratic, or, as in one to two instances like Minnesota and Wisconsin, in control of groups friendly to the New Deal.

Meeting Changes

While the process of meeting changes in social and economic conditions is written into the constitution, the New Deal has decided not to avail itself of that machinery, but, by control of congress and attempted control of judicial interpretation, to make unnecessary any resort to the referendum idea stipulated in the constitution.

Although the constitution specifically says that any powers not especially mentioned in the document are reserved "to the states" or to the "people," the Roosevelt administration has assumed the right to make fundamental changes in the social and economic life of the nation touching basic powers that are not granted to the federal government in the constitution. Not one of the following powers, for example, which have been assumed by the Roosevelt administration, are mentioned in the constitution:

1. The right to control wages and hours, as now provided in the so-called "Fair Labor Standards Act," jammed through by the president at the last session of congress.
2. The right to control the output of each farm, as provided in the latest agricultural legislation, and to influence the prices to be charged in marketing.
3. The right of the states to police labor disputes of a local character, as for instance, the National Labor Relations board assumption that virtually all labor disputes are related to or affect interstate commerce, a power assumed under the broad language of the Wagner law.
4. The prohibiting of the individual to accumulate profits in business as a reserve for hard times, as under the so-called undistributed profits tax legislation.

These are but a few of the many basic changes which normally would be submitted to the people for approval or disapproval as each addition or subtraction of federal power involves broad questions of lawful authority.

The usual argument made by the New Deal is that it takes too much time to get a constitutional amendment through the existing process.

But the records show that the constitution has been amended 21 times and that delays occur only when, properly enough, the people are divided as to the wisdom of the change. Once two-thirds of both houses of congress agree to submit an amendment which the people really want, as was the case with the twentieth and the twenty-first amendments, the process takes only a few months and the dissenting states are negligible in number.

But, even conceding that the present process is cumbersome and that a new provision respecting the method of making changes in the constitution is desirable, as has often been advocated by so-called liberals, the records do not show a single recommendation in any public address or message from Mr. Roosevelt urging such a constitutional amendment.

Tory Tactics

Instead of trusting the people to vote on specific amendments, which is the truly democratic process, the Roosevelt regime has adopted the well-known Tory tactics of usurping all powers and manipulating the political strength of the central government to control the votes of the national legislature and to intimidate, if not coerce, the judiciary.

Surely, the true liberals are not afraid of democracy, but the new

17 Youths Hear Safety Talks at Bicycle Bureau

Appear Saturday After Getting "Tickets" for Not Observing Rules

Seventeen youths who failed to heed bicycle regulations in the city appeared yesterday morning at the first session of the police bicycle safety bureau and heard talks on the importance of heeding the rules.

The cyclists were told by Sergeant Carl Radtke, who is in charge of the new bureau, that the next time they appear at the bureau for failing to observe the rules of safe riding, their registration tags will be taken from them for a period of time.

"Offenses" ranged from failure to stop at arterials to riding more than one on a bicycle. The bureau was established to impress on bicyclists the importance of safe and sane riding. Failure to observe the rules may result in serious or fatal accidents, Sergeant Radtke told the riders appearing at the bureau.

Police issue "tickets" to riders found disregarding the regulations and the bureau holds a weekly school session each Saturday morning. Parents have been asked by Chief of Police George T. Prim to cooperate with police in seeing that their children appear at the bureau if they are given "tickets."

SCHEDULE HEARINGS

Hearings on real estate licenses will be conducted by the Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers board at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 5, at the county courthouse.

Stories in the Roosevelt administration are so distrustful of the people's capacity to judge what is a good or bad amendment that the administration prefers to stake everything in an election where issues and personalities can be confused; and, after such an election, it is much simpler for the central authority to win votes of rubber-stamp legislators through the award of public works projects, promises of judgeships and federal jobs either for themselves or their friends.

Many persons here as elsewhere who are heartily sick of all the evasions of the politicians, Republicans and Democrats, would really like to see the American democracy permitted to function. Nobody here is afraid of Democracy except the "big boss" of the government itself, who finds its easier to control rubber-stamp congressmen than to win primary elections or to submit any fundamental issues in specific form to the American people.

Military Academy Dean Praises Hostel Movement

Milwaukee—(AP)—Major H. H. Holt, dean of St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wisc., praised the youth hostel movement as an aid to peace in a radio address here yesterday, declaring it was an almost certain method of creating national and international goodwill among peoples.

"At least three-fourths of the warfare between nation and nation, labor and capital, producer and consumer, is caused by the absence of understanding and appreciation," he said.

"If the American youth can spend a few weeks in hostels of other countries as hundreds already have done, he learns to understand and like the friends he makes there. Travel in this democratic manner promotes understanding, broad-mindedness, tolerance, unselfishness, a disposition to let the other fellow have his place in the sun."

Church Women of County to Meet At Clintonville

Sixth Annual Convention Oct. 19 at Congregational Church

Clintonville—The sixth annual convention of the Waupaca County Federation of Protestant church women will be held Wednesday, Oct. 19, at the Congregational church in this city, with the Dorcas society of that church as the hostess group. Officers of the federation are: Mrs. John Meinhardt, Clintonville, president; Mrs. W. Bielow, Waupaca, vice-president; Mrs. Harry B. Dodge, Clintonville, secretary-treasurer.

Sessions will be held both forenoon and afternoon, with a dinner served at the church dining room. The women's societies to be represented at the convention have each been asked to contribute a number to the program. A general discussion of plans and methods in Ladies Aid society work will be one of the features of the day.

The first convention of the Waupaca county Federation was held in October, 1933, at the Congregational church of Royalton. For the last five years there has been an average attendance of more than 100 delegates at the meetings.

The 1937 convention took place at the Methodist church of New London, the officers in charge being Mrs. L. C. Lowell, president; Mrs. Beatrice Monstead, vice president, both of New London; and Mrs. Fred Wipke of Iowa, secretary-treasurer.

Central Circle of the Congregational Dorcas society will hold its September meeting at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 21, at the cottage of Mrs. Harry B. Dodge on Clover Leaf Jakes. A covered-dish luncheon will follow the business session.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Steenbock have returned to their home in this city from a motor trip to Spokane, Wash., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Manser and family, formerly of Clintonville. From there they took a trip along the Pacific coast to Portland, Ore. Enroute, the Steenbocks visited the Black Hill region and Yellowstone National park. They were away 18 days and did not encounter rainy weather until they reached Iowa and Wisconsin on their homeward trip.

Farmers of this vicinity are greatly handicapped by not being able to harvest their corn crop because of the continuous rainy weather. A large number of silos remain to be filled and farmers having sweet corn for the local canning factory are often several days behind schedule in bringing it to the plant. Potatoes on low land are already beginning to show signs of rot due to the extremely wet ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood and children have moved to Shawano and their home on Anne street has been rented to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hanson and daughter. The Hansons occupied the B. G. Donley residence during the summer months, while the Donleys lived at their summer home on Clover Leaf lake.

Kentucky has bought 3,500 quail from independent breeders in the state to be released next spring and has contracted for 1,500 additional birds.

Doc, I bought these teeth at a bargain but I want you to put them in!

IMAGINE the amazement of your dentist if you went to him with a set of "store teeth" you purchased at a bargain and asked him to fit them in your mouth.

Your dentist knows that your health, comfort and well-being depend upon his ability to select teeth which will exactly meet your individual requirements—perfect matching of the teeth to assure a natural appearance and expert fitting to afford satisfactory service for many years.

Neither good teeth nor good plumbing can be purchased economically "over the counter." Plumbing fixtures too, must be of assured quality, carefully selected to meet your requirements, harmoniously matched to enhance the appearance of your home and installed by experienced hands to assure health protection, satisfactory service and real economy.

Good plumbing is vital to the health of your family for it means the delivery of pure water and the safe removal of dangerous waste matter. It can mean much more than the good health of your family alone, because water contamination can endanger the health of an entire community. Good plumbing is so vital that you should be sure that your present plumbing is good.

Entrust your plumbing only to Master Plumbers. They have the knowledge, skill and experience necessary to assure safe, healthful, economical plumbing. Buy your fixtures from them. Place upon them the entire responsibility, as you would upon your dentist.

Your Master Plumber can recommend the "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures best suited for your requirements, help you plan a new bathroom, powder room or kitchen, and arrange the financing on low F.H.A. terms. And remember, "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures, sold through Master Plumbers, cost no more than others.

Giving One Trick May Save Two

BY ELY CULBERTSON

To be successful a player must be generous—when it doesn't cost him anything! This, of course, is a lamentably cynical philosophy, but a necessary one.

If a declarer, for example, gives a trick away without need or purpose he may be a fine fellow, but he's not a good bridge player. But if, on the other hand, the "gift" does the defenders no good and the declarer himself no harm at all, indeed, such concession smooths out the road for declarer, it is supremely foolish for him to be tight-fisted.

Declarer's greed in the hand shown below was very costly.

West, dealer.

The bidding:

West North East South

Pass Pass 1 club 1 heart

Pass 4 hearts Pass Pass

East toyed with the idea of bidding again over North's preemptive four heart bid, but vulnerability conditions being what they were, correctly decided against it.

West opened his fourth highest club and declarer, after a pleased survey of his wealth in trumps, nonchalantly ruffed the opening lead in dummy. After drawing the opponents' trumps in one lead he turned his attention to his losers in spades and diamonds—and his nonchalance rapidly faded. He tried to establish a spade trick in dummy for a diamond discard, but this, he soon found, was a forlorn hope. On the lead of the spade Jack West hoped up with the king and shifted to a diamond. Dummy ducked. East won with the king, and returned a diamond. To make a sad story short, declarer found that he could not dispose of his four losers in spades and diamonds and thus had to admit defeat.

Declarer's play at the first trick had been an instance of pure greed with no compensating logic. It should have been perfectly obvious that he could well afford the concession of a club trick, since that concession would establish another club trick for himself. It goes without saying that he should have discarded one of dummy's losing diamonds, making East a gracious present of the club ace. Declarer's own club king then would have become established and dummy's other losing diamond would find a safe resting place. There would be nothing to play after the first trick. Declarer could win any return East made except a spade (in which suit he would gladly concede two tricks), draw trumps, cash the club king, discarding dummy's remaining diamond loser, and then claim the balance.

Old Gardener Says:

The chief reason for the failure of newly planted evergreens to survive the winter is lack of moisture late in the season. This is especially true as applied to broad-leaved evergreens like rhododendrons and mountain laurel. It is true even as regards trees and shrubs which will suffer if they go into the winter without an abundance of water at their roots. The moral of all this is that the amateur should take pains to thoroughly saturate the ground around his evergreens with water up to the time that the ground freezes. Then his trees and shrubs will be pretty certain to go through the winter without injury.

My Neighbor Says—

If you have any hardy chrysanthemums they will stand quite a bit of frost but the new buds are quite tender and should be kept covered at night.

The first hiss of steam from the radiators is a signal to the experienced plant grower. He knows that it means dry air, hot temperatures, and occasional cold drafts from open windows, all of which conditions are hazardous for house plants not equipped to battle them.

To remove a fresh grease spot on a rug, cover the spot with blotting paper, then press with a hot flatiron. Cover the spot with magnesia, let it remain for 24 hours, then brush off.

If you like the flavor of butter in vegetables, stir it into the cooked vegetables just before they are served, rather than while cooking. The flavor thus imparted is more pronounced.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

When children grow irritable and pick at each other or their parents, it often means they are bored. They want you to furnish them new ideas for entertainment. Be sure to read my answer to Flora, and paste this case in your scrapbook.

CASE L-119: Flora G., aged 34, is the mother of three children.

"Sometimes I think they'll drive me distracted," she confessed.

"When they are all in the house together, they often become cross and irritable."

"They'll come and ask me what they can do, or what they can play. 'Swamped in my housework, about all I can say is for them to go out doors and do something. I know this is too vague a suggestion to be of much help to them."

"But what can I do, Dr. Crane? They are bored with the sameness of their environment, and I am so busy I can't think of anything novel or interesting. So we get on each other's nerves."

DIAGNOSIS:

Flora's difficulty is very common, and illustrates the fact that we cannot rely on inspiration of the moment to solve our problems.

The people who are most successful in life are those who plan ahead. They anticipate their dilemmas and figure out a solution long before they actually encounter those same problems in reality.

Many a time Mrs. Crane and I have felt like Flora, for our five children become bored by the sameness of their play and ask us for new ideas. And maybe we could

Age No Excuse for Not Keeping Up With Times

BY DOROTHY DIX

The consolation prize for age is that it is a double-acted alibi for everything you want to do and everything you do not wish to do. When you are 70 you are too old to work, but not too old to play. You are too feeble to take care of the grandchildren or do chores about the house, but you are perfectly able to take a tour around the world and sit up until midnight playing bridge.

DOROTHY DIX and who hold their shoulders back and their chins up.

Most elderly people simply let themselves go. The men have souvenirs of their last meal on their waistcoats, their trousers bag at the knees and their hair straggles over their coat collars. The women have their hair piled up in a bun, and have thrown away their corsets and have the figures of baggy meal sacks, and their clothes and their hats look as if their worst enemy had selected them.

This is the case even among men and women who are amply able to afford the best tailors and dressmakers and beauty parlors, yet when you ask them why they make themselves unnecessarily hard on the eyes of the beholder, they defend themselves by saying that it is the prerogative of age not to have to worry any longer about its looks. "When you are old you've got a right to slouch," said a woman to me, who in her youth had been a beauty and dressed like Solomon in all his glory, and who still would have been something to gaze upon if she hadn't let herself get hump-backed and her clothes hadn't looked as if she had gotten them at a rummage sale.

Now instead of age giving us the right to relax in our efforts to present an attractive appearance to our fellow creatures, it is really a clarification call to get busy to camouflage the ravages that Time has made upon us. We have lost the beauty of youth. We can't get that back, but we can at least take the curse off the homeliness of age by keeping ourselves immaculately clean, by arranging our sparse hair to the best advantage and wearing the prettiest clothes that our purses will buy.

Many old people make their age an excuse for being dull and boring and being so far behind the times that their opinions are only interesting as antiquities. I have known old people who actually boasted that they never read anything, not even the daily papers. They did like these new-fangled ideas of messing up a paper with comic strips

Overgrown Adolescent Needs Change and Relief

BY ANGELO PATRI

Here is a boy who never gave anybody trouble, never gave his people a moment's worry, until, on his fourteenth birthday, he makes a wrong turn. He began to grow rapidly. From a boy in knickers he shot up into a six-footer whose long pants weren't long enough, whose childish ways weren't strong enough to keep him comfortable. He didn't fit anywhere. In school he had to have a chair and table apart from the class, as he occupied the way of his own growth and not adept enough for the older ones. His lessons fell off and the teachers began finding fault. A group of gangling youngsters, much in his condition of growth, but below his intellectual standards, took him in gladly. From them he took color rapidly.

"What's this, Michael? You're smoking."

"No, I'm not. That's just from the smoke in the garage. The men and boys down there all smoke."

"You can't tell me that. It's all part and parcel of what you are doing lately. No lessons done, gangling up with that corner set, smoking and lying about it. Now listen. I mean this. If you don't stop going with these good-for-nothings, do your work, stop smoking, behave yourself, you're not going to get that car which you promised you on your sixteenth birthday, and you're not going to get your own room. When I said you could have them I thought you were a decent chap, responsible. You're not. Either you change your ways or I change my ideas about you."

After that Michael told more truths about his friends and his doings and the smoking. He did no better work—worse if anything. His father and mother were worried to death about him. His manners were bad and getting worse; he stayed out as late as he dared. He was fast slipping away from home and school and the old standards. One afternoon he went home with a headache. Fever developed and the doctor had to be called. "He's tired out, poor kid," said he. "He needs a long rest. Got to have it."

Father exploded. "Rest? Him? He's run us ragged. It is we who need a rest." And he poured out the story.

"That's what I thought," said the old doctor. "He had to use his strength for growing. Look at him. Fifteen and over six feet. He had nothing left for school work. That was telling you all the time. That is what his behavior was saying. The only place he could find any comfort was with the kids like himself. What was he to do? He couldn't do what you demanded. A kid usually does his best to keep up. When he falls down it is usually beyond his say-so."

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Even though you have caught your man, and he has gone with you to the altar, that's no reason for not keeping yourself looking as lovely as possible.

Are you still the attractive woman your husband married? Have you kept that alluring presence which made him choose you from all the women he knew? Or have you "slumped," comfortable in the knowledge that now he is your husband and because you are married there is no need to keep being beautiful?

Don't make that mistake, my dear. There is nothing permanent about this business of marriage nowadays. Those same masculine eyes which sought you out of the crowd, can quickly seek another belle if you fail in being your husband's beautiful wife. The man who lavishes his all upon you desires his wife to be an asset. Not a millstone around his neck!

Man actually worships beauty. It is men who inspire us to be beautiful. You may argue all around that statement, but in final analysis I do not think that a woman would trouble being nicely groomed, wearing smart clothes, or acquiring an appealing manner, if there were no men in the world to attract! Just look at the girls in a girls' college. Then look at the co-eds! Which group is more on its toes when it comes to beauty?

An Eye to Beauty

Women are clever these days—clever about their looks. The little quiet Suzy who seemed plain-jane to you in youth, blossoms into a devastating young lady and into a strong competitor. It is stupid to think that a husband will see beneath indifferent habits—he has two eyes which see surface grooming first! So a woman must keep her looks intact, a little grooming each day, if she wants her husband to keep his eyes at home! After all what thrill is there to come home to an overweight wife with messy hair, a slouched figure and perhaps an ill temper to boot?

Do not think that you can catch up on your grooming all of a sudden when friend husband wants to beau you to some particular party! Neglect cannot be covered in an hour or so. It takes in pretty consistent daily care to keep astir with the ravages of time and duties.

I'm not advocating being a slave to beauty and forgetting your husband needs food when he comes home. But perhaps you can arrange your schedule so that a prettier wife will serve that food and keep him thinking he made a pretty good choice that day when he said "Will you be mine?"

If your beauty budget is limited my leaflet "Beauty at Small Cost" is just what you want. A self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope will bring it to you. Address me care of this paper.

The Characters

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.

Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.

Yesterday, Venner, the second of Geiss's confederates, lives at the Chateau. I accompany him to the beach, and two men attack me in the water.

Chapter 25

Dissension

I HAD exactly one second, before the grip on my throat tightened, to fill my lungs with the clear, sweet air. Then down, down I went into solid green depths of water. I hadn't realized even before in my life—I who had always been a crack under-water swimmer—how hard it would be to hold one's breath with a suffocating pressure on one's windpipe. It had into the kitchen (and is opposite the one from kitchen into foyer). What do you think of painting foyer and living-room (including mantle) a light green (more yellow than blue) because we have light maple furniture, and also to carry the same green into the trim and cupboards of the dining-room, relieving the monotony, however, of too much green by putting on a wallpaper? If you like this idea, what sort of paper would you choose? Would you like a colonial one with ships, or one of the Currier and Ives print papers? The kitchen is good in size and well EQUIPPED, but it is completely IN-SIDED except for the doorway into the dining-room. It has an electric flue over the range, but the agent says the building law requires that a solid door be placed between kitchen and the dining-room. But we could have double swing doors of the shutter type with a wide space above and below them, but my husband says they suggest the entrance to a saloon, though I can't think of anything else. The bedroom is separated from the living-room by a hallway. It has three windows—two north and one east—and plenty of closets. Our furniture is all light maple colonial throughout—really lovely. I have all of them. I have chintz bed valances and covers and window curtains—yellow ground with small bunches of flowers spaced evenly over it. What do you think of painting this room in a soft light yellow that has white designs, and then painting all trim in this room yellow?

Answer: I think very pale lettuce green a lovely and most livable color. If I were you I'd paint the foyer as well as the living-room of this certainly. But in the dining-room I think it would be best to choose your paper first. A very small room with three windows, two doors, and one whole wall of cupboards can't possibly have more than four or five narrow strips of wall to paper. The Currier and Ives print might look very well—or it might add too many squares to the already many squares made by cupboards and doors. A scattered flower paper would, I think, look best, with trim and cupboards painted to match the background of the paper. Don't increase the effect of the door and window-frames by painting them green, unless your wallpaper ground is exactly this color. In the bedroom the white of the design would, I think, be best. Why, I don't know, but yellow is seldom a becoming color to doors or to trim—particularly in a room furnished with maple. At least on two occasions I tried it. I had to paint it over. With yellow walls, white, or oyster white, looks best, I think!

For an instant I wondered if he was upbraiding his employees for failing in their job, but all that mattered to me was that they had failed, and I took my way back to shore at a leisurely pace.

"Well, I said, 'that was an exciting five minutes while it lasted.' The old man stared up at me. His face was gray. 'What happened?' he demanded."

"Nothing," I answered, "except that these gentlemen, for some reason, had a fancy for drowning me. One of them faked an attack of cramp, and when I went to help him, he got me by the throat, while another fellow gripped my ankles. If I hadn't been used to swimming under water, I'd be passing the time of day with my forefathers by now. But at least I added with satisfaction, 'I gave him a couple of sore eyes to remember me by.'"

"I won't have it!" he said, very low, his old voice shaking. "Unthinkable—unspeakable! I won't have it—I won't have it!"

He caught suddenly at his side, the gray trim in his cheeks deepened. "Amedee," he said abruptly, "take me back to the house at once. I am ill. And you, since you must come with me, it is not safe for you to remain here alone."

It was a queer thought that I should be safer in the company of Venner the banker, but queerer still was the fact that I believed him, and without a word I fell into step beside the wheel-chair.

across the terrace, brought me back to grim reality with a jerk. Whether or not she was surprised to see me returning safe and whole I couldn't tell, for her round pink face was as blank as a stone image; but she came forward swiftly and laid a hand on the old man's shoulder.

"You are not well, Mr. Venner," she said quickly. "Amedee, take the patron straight to his room; I will come at once." Then she turned to me. "I hope you enjoyed your bath?"

"I have never had one like it," I answered simply, and was for making tracks for my room when she stopped me with a gesture.

"One moment, Mr. Lumsden. I am sorry to trouble you, but the key—"

"Of course!" I said. "The key—why, yes, certainly! I'll bring it down to you on my way out."

I made my way up the stairs, but just on the bend I halted, checked by the sound of angry voices.

"Henrietta!" came the old man's shrill falsetto. "It was an outrage, a dastardly outrage! I won't be argued with. You will telephone at once—tell him I must see him this morning or there will be trouble..."

I went on my way, convinced that, however odd it seemed, the prospect of my sudden demise was not pleasing to Mr. Venner, and wondering not a little who it was that he was summoning so urgently to see him.

My bed was made and my room tidied for the day, but as I opened the bag to get out a clean shirt, I observed with interest that other hands than mine had been examining the contents.

For an instant I was at a loss to know what they had been looking for, then suddenly I remembered the key and chuckled to myself, reflecting that the housekeeper was taking no chances of my doing any

RAINS SWELL FOX RIVER AND FLOOD FARM FIELDS

The steady rains of the last two weeks are making their effects felt in Outagamie county. The level of the Fox river was considerably raised and the bridge at Little Chute was closed for a time because of danger as a result of the flood waters pounding at the bridge supports. The bridge is shown in the picture at the top above.

The lower picture probably would be a sticker in a "guess what" contest and the majority would probably describe it as muskrat houses on a river. The truth, however, is that the picture is one of stacks of second crop hay in a roadside field along County Highway M, connecting link between Hortonville and State Highway 54. With the rains and high water of the last two weeks, scenes of this type can be duplicated in many sections of the state. (Post-Crescent Photos)

SOTAL Drummers Will Be Honored At Civic Dinner

Banquet for State Championship Corps Slated For Oct. 11

The Appleton boys who make up the Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps which won first place in the state convention held this summer at Ashland will be honored by citizens of Appleton at a banquet Tuesday, Oct. 11, at the Legion clubhouse.

Plans for the banquet were fostered by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, which voted an appropriation of $50 to honor the group after it won state honors. A committee consisting of Karl Haugen, chairman, Richard Mahony and Dan Steinberg, Sr., was named by the chamber to confer with Legion officials. Both the local American Legion post and the city council also appropriated $50, bringing the total to $150.

After the banquet, which will be served at 6:15 in the Legion clubhouse basement, the group will go to the clubhouse auditorium for the program, which will be public. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., will make the presentations, a wall plaque to be hung in the clubhouse and a small knife to each boy in the corps. Dr. William L. Crow will act as master of ceremonies. A speech by a prominent Appleton business man, his name not yet announced, on "Our Boys" and entertainment will be included in the program.

Sales Mean Jobs

Andrews Suggests State Change Wage-Hour Laws to Include Men

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Wages-and-hours administrator Elmer F. Andrews suggests that Wisconsin change its labor laws to establish minimum wages and maximum hours for men as well as for women and minors in industry.

Two states have so far attempted to apply such laws to adult men as well as women and children, only to have the state courts throw them out on technicalities. No such laws have come to the supreme court of the United States since it reversing its previous opinions, held such laws for women and children to be constitutional.

Andrews, while a committee of state labor commissioners was working here on a "model" state wages-and-hours bill, suggested that it would be "very helpful" if the states would supplement their labor laws to bring them in accord with the new federal law.

Major Difficulties
Major difficulties in administration of the federal law are expected to come from conflicts over what constitutes interstate commerce, and over differences in state minimum wages set for women and the federal minimum established for men by the administration of the fair labor standards act.

For example, the national administration might set 2.30 cents an hour as the minimum in the shoe industry while a shoe manufacturing state might have a minimum of 32 cents an hour for women, and another might have 25 cents.

Andrews said that whichever wages is higher, that set by the state or that set by the federal government, would prevail. If the industry is in interstate commerce. This might result in a state's requiring women to work for a higher wage than men could work, under the federal law, with the possible result that the jobs would go to the men.

Labor unions would probably resist lowering any state standard set for women, and would probably try to raise any state standard that is lower than the federal standard.

Affect Service Industries
State labor laws, as a rule, affect more women in the service industries than in manufacturing. The service industries, such as laundries, hotels, restaurants, building service, and cleaning and pressing shops, are in general not covered by the federal law.

Many of the state laws set such low minimum wages for women in manufacturing industries that their wages would be increased by the federal law.

Some of the state hours laws for women permit considerably longer hours of work than the federal law, which starts out at a maximum of 48 hours a week, to be lowered to 40 hours. These, again, however, chiefly affect the service industries.

Fifth Week of Picketing Ended at Michigan Church

Vulcan, Mich. — Close of the fifth week of picketing to prevent the Rev. Fr. Simon Borkowski of St. Barbara's church from leaving for St. Nazianz, Wis., where he was transferred, was marked yesterday. Pickets declared they had no intention of yielding to the church order, and continued to hold Father Borkowski a "prisoner."

It Is Said--

That the docks at the Appleton Boat club are under water for the first time since their construction. The high water, caused by heavy rains during the last two weeks, has flooded into some of the boat houses. Some of the boatmen have made use of the high water by anchoring their boats to shore on the flood water level to save themselves the trouble of pulling them out of the water when it recedes.

Daniel J. Doherty of the American Legion told that organization's twentieth annual convention today in making his year's report. "For the first time in the history of the American Legion it can accurately be stated that legislation of far-reaching import has been secured to provide for the establishment of an adequate national defense," said Doherty.

The national commander deplored what he said was "the disturbed condition of world affairs with force being the dominant element in shaping world events."

The legion's Americanism commission's activities are "of greater import now than at any time in the history of the legion," he declared.

Flood of Propaganda
"Subversive groups have increased tremendously," he said. "America has been flooded with propaganda. Advantage has been taken of the trying conditions under which our country has been laboring."

Doherty said "we must continue to lead in this fight and to marshal public opinion and active interest to the end that efforts of these un-American agencies will be abortive."

In his report of the year Doherty said the 1938 membership reached a total of 972,933 compared with the national quota for 1938 of 935,112. Sons of the Legion, he said, now have 2,842 squadrons and a membership of 53,918.

Senator Speaks
Senator David I. Walsh (D-Mass.) addressed the opening session of the twentieth annual convention of the American Legion today on neutrality, national defense and radicalism.

"In the midst of a darkness and despair that hangs over the world, with human beings crying out everywhere for peace, I plead with this powerful and patriotic organization to accept the challenge to serve peace and order here in our own America, and to continue ceaseless devotion to the claims of justice," he said.

"The realities of today in the world at large admit of only one construction; namely, that strong and adequate national defense, coupled with absolute neutrality, is the best and perhaps the only assurance of peace."

"We have enemies without our gates, enemies that are challenging our basic ideals secretly and stealthily, striving in devious ways to undermine them, and whose ultimate aim is to overthrow our system of organized economic and social activity."

"You must gird yourselves now against the subtle enemies within our gates."

PANNECK CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

Health is your greatest asset, the most important source of wealth. The Panneck Chiropractic Clinic is premised upon the service idea of getting sick people well as soon as possible, thus reducing the cost of being sick. We present different cases to show how severe some of them could be and yet well here. Only cases numbers are used.

Case No. 4109. Woman, age 25, extremely nervous, choking sensation. Heart action disturbed, bothered with sense of fear. This case has been diagnosed as inward going by her Doctor before coming to the Panneck Chiropractic Clinic. We in this clinic made an X-ray of the spine. There we found what was causing the enlargement of the thyroid gland and gave the necessary spinal adjustment to release the nerves. At the present time the case is perfectly well and working every day.

Case No. 4133. Woman, age 29, had convulsions for several days following a stillbirth of her first baby. Suffered with almost constant headaches. Then there came a time when she was expecting another baby. Her Doctor said she could not have the second baby due to a bad kidney trouble. This case has been diagnosed as inward going by her Doctor before coming to the Panneck Chiropractic Clinic and an examination of the spine was made with scientific instruments. The cause was located and adjustments given accordingly. Her headaches cleared up within two weeks, other conditions also responded nicely and in due time she gave normal birth to her second baby. The baby is now seven months old and both mother and baby are well and happy. This should be very good evidence what a competent Chiropractor can accomplish in such problem cases as the above mentioned. For your health appointment Phone 4319-W. Hecker-Kamps Bldg.

Flood Forces Five Menasha Families To Abandon Homes

Butte des Morts Street. Part of Fox Street Under Water

Menasha — Rising waters in the Fox river today forced five families to move from the flooded area of Menasha, known as Libertyville. The families are staying with relatives and friends.

The west end of Fox street is covered with water several feet deep while the entire length of Butte des Morts street is under water. The high water has caused a strong current to flow through that area. The water has been rising steadily since last week and several of the houses are completely surrounded by water while others are nearly surrounded.

In one home this morning water reached such a height that it flowed in under the doors. Bill Gleason, a bachelor living on Hammer's island in the center of the Fox river, has been forced to leave his home. The entire island is under water. Gleason kept his boat tied to his bedstead for several days but finally left when the water continued to rise. Fifty chickens left on the island are perching on the roof of the house and an adjoining shed.

All Gates Open

All gates at both the Neenah and Menasha dams are open. At Neenah 14 gates are open while at Menasha six gates have been opened. Two of the gates never had been opened before, according to George Johnson, lockmaster.

The old wooden bridge at the Menasha Wooden Ware is nearly under water while in Little Lake Butte des Morts the water level has reached the joists on the Soo line and North Western railroad bridges.

In the Neenah branch of the Fox river, the water is the highest it has been since 1921. The river is rising steadily and several feet of back yards along the south side of W. North Water street are under water. When the retaining wall was built there eight years ago, it was constructed one foot higher than the recorded highest level of the river but today the water is well over the wall.

Several paper companies, including the Sawyer Paper company and the Bergstrom Paper company, as well as others, have been forced to move their supplies of stock to prevent possible water damage.

Tomato Battle Ends In Riot When Police Try to Break It Up

Fourteen students were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct after the melee. Their cases will come before Police Magistrate Frank E. Hewitt in Wheaton. The battle, which annually precedes the Wheaton-Glenbard football game, occurred Thursday night. Seven hundred rival students, armed with tomato and armed with tomatoes and cabbages of doubtful fragrance.

Two squads of policemen appeared and said, in effect, "disperse, you tomato tossers." The crowd booed. They shouted.

They forgot rivalry and jointly heaved fruit and vegetables at the coppers, according to innocent bystanders. Witnesses said the policemen resorted to night sticks and tear gas.

The fire department effectively ended the battle by turning hoses on the crowd. The football game the next night ended in a 0 to 0 tie.

"Reports on file with the secretary of state show that $14,664 has been spent in behalf of Heil, whereas the corrupt practices act, as I understand it, limits the expenditure in behalf of a candidate for governor to $4,000," Hienfeldt said.

Candidates Close Soeetch Campaigns In Badger State

Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee for "his brazen and dangerous attempt to drag America into war."

A charge that he did not think his opponents honest in accusing him of trying to foist a dictatorship on the United States was made by Representative Thomas R. Amle, Progressive senatorial candidate, in an address at Oconto. "Those who pretend to see such a threat in my industrial expansion program are merely trying to confuse the electorate and confound the issue," he said.

"The time is ripe," William H. Stafford, Republican candidate, in an address at Menomonie Falls, said "to demand a strong policy of neutrality for the American government."

NEW YORK PRIMARY

New York.—The Roosevelt "purge" campaign, unsuccessful in three other states, ends tomorrow in balloting which directly involves the president's prestige in his home state.

Representative John J. O'Connor (D-N. Y.), chairman of the key house rules committee, is up for re-nomination against a New Deal proponent, James H. Fay, until recently deputy in the internal revenue bureau.

Mr. Roosevelt's long-known objections to O'Connor's return to Washington were pointed up Saturday in a White House statement that "of course" the president "hopes Mr. Fay will win."

O'Connor, an old-line Tammany man, also is seeking nomination in the Republican primary against Allen Dulles, the organization designer, in the hope of building a bipartisan conservative coalition. New Deal Democrats and American Labor party leaders have joined in favor of Fay.

Administration resentment against O'Connor, a member of congress since 1922, was fostered by his part in the successful fight to defeat the Roosevelt-sponsored reorganization bill.

Throughout the state there are 106 other intra-party contests for congressional, legislative, county and judicial offices, none of national significance. Candidates for governor, senator and other state-wide posts will be picked later in the month at party state conventions.

BAY STATE PRIMARY

Boston.—A small army of aspirants for public office, its roll creating a new record for length of a Massachusetts ballot, trumpeted a final call today for support in tomorrow's primaries—climax of a campaign almost entirely barren of national issues, but warmed by factional fights over state problems.

At stake were the Republican and Democratic nominations for Massachusetts' 15 seats in the national house, as well as those for governor and a long list of state and county posts. The state does not elect a United States senator this year.

A bitter, four-sided battle for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination held the spotlight of public interest, with Charles F. Hurley, chunky incumbent, countering opponents' charges he was a "do nothing" governor with the assertion his "honest administration" made him the only Democrat who could be elected.

Challenging Hurley's right to hold the chief executive's chair were former Governor James Michael Curley, Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly and former Congressman Richard M. Russell.

A little less turbulent, but none-the-less intensive, has been the campaign for Republican nomination for governor, bringing together former House Speaker Leverett Saltonstall, Essex County Commissioner Frederick Butler, Townsdenite William McMahers and Richard D. Whitcomb, seeking his first elective post.

NEW DEAL TEST

Newark, N. J.—New Jersey's primary campaign, closing today, foreshadowed a United States senatorial election test in November of New Deal loyalty.

William H. J. Ely, 47, unopposed for the Democratic nomination in tomorrow's primary, styled himself a "100 per cent New Dealer" and a "supporter of President Roosevelt all the way."

Ely, who resigned as WPA administrator in New Jersey to enter the race, has the support of Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley.

Former United States Senator W. Warren Barbour, 50, Republican organization candidate, devoted pre-primary campaigning to attacking Ely, and paid little attention to his two primary opponents, Dan Coskey, middle-aged industrial engineer of Jersey City, and George O. Pullen, 51-year-old Trenton electrical repair man.

Barbour, who voted for many New Deal bills as a senator during President Roosevelt's first term, called Ely a "self-admitted rubber stamp" and said he would not "barter my conscience for a free coat-tail ride."

What's New at the Library

A leader in the pre-war Second International and other proletarian organizations, Angelica Balabanoff has written her autobiography, "My Life as a Rebel," which is among the new books at Appleton Public Library. The author has been the friend and co-worker of every great figure in the revolutionary movement during the last 40 years, and her book contains personality views and intimate glimpses into the careers of such personages as Mussolini, Babel, Jaures, Zetkin, Lenin, Trotsky, Gorki and others.

"Vocations in Fiction" by Lingonfelter is a reference book which is an annotated bibliography intended for use of librarians, teachers and vocational counselors. Its aim is to bring to light novels of occupational significance.

Classics of the eighteenth century which typify and reveal an era are included in the volume, "An Eighteenth Century Miscellany" edited by Louis Kronenberger. Reviews by the editor have been appearing in leading periodicals for almost 10 years. His novel, "The Grand Manner," was published in 1929 and he acted for almost seven years in an editorial capacity for a New York publishing house. He recently returned from a year in England where he gathered material for his present work. In the book appear excerpts from Swift, Pope, John Gay, the Earl of Chesterfield, Sterne, Horace Walpole, Sheridan, Gibbon and William Blake.

"Songs and Ballads from Nova Scotia" collected by Helen Creighton tells the fascinating story of the collection of songs gathered among the fisher-folk in the vicinity of Halifax. The music for each is given at the head of the piece, and the verses and choruses are printed in full.

The entire amazing fabric of German Fascism is revealed and laid bare by the men who invented it in "The Nazi Primer" by Childs and Dodd. It is the official handbook for schooling Hitler youth.

Josephine Culbertson, half of the famous bridge team, has written a book entitled "Contract Bridge for Beginners," which explains the fundamental facts controlling the correct way to play contract. It is intended for average players or for those who have never played before.

"Trees of Northeastern United States" by H. P. Brown is a textbook having many fine illustrations of our native trees.

The birth of contemporary Mexican art is discussed in "Contemporary Mexican Artists" by Agustín Velasquez Chavez, one of the new books on the library shelves. It contains biographical notes on such artists as Abraham Angel, Doctor Atl, Julio Castellanos,

Allot $28,500,000 of Road Funds for Local Purposes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison.—The state highway commission of Wisconsin, which some local officials appear to believe is getting more than its share of state highway revenue these days, today told the public how its highway dollar is spent.

A copy of a chart, showing the distribution of all state highway revenues and the cost of administration has been sent to all highway commissioners, including Frank Appleton of Outagamie county. It is the work of E. L. Roetiger, state highway engineer.

Before the state highway commission has any funds available for its own work, eight statutory allotments have been subtracted from the highway dollar as aids to local governments, both counties and municipalities, for highway and other purposes, it was explained.

Distribution Law. As a result, the commission said, not until state highway receipts exceed approximately $28,500,000 is there any state fund directly at the disposal of the commission for construction on state trunk highways.

The 1931 highway distribution law, sponsored by Senator John E. Cashman of Denmark, was based on the expectation that normal highway receipts per year would be about $30,000,000. In recent years, however, this has been exceeded, giving rise to demands from local governmental interests, particularly counties, that state aids to localities be increased from the surplus. During the last fiscal year for example, net highway income was $31,760,000. As a result the commission had available $3,563,724 for new construction after the ear-marking of $21,000,000 for aids, and $7,358,933 for winter and summer highway maintenance.

The commission divided the expenditure of the Wisconsin highway revenue dollar as follows:

.2680 cents, county construction allotment.

.2317, summer, winter maintenance.

.1286, local roads and streets.

.1152, privilege tax on vehicles.

.1122, state construction fund.

.0946, county trunk highways.

.0315, special bridges, crossings.

.0118, signs, marking, safety, park, charitable and penal institution roads.

.0064, administration surveys, maps, etc.

Fifty representatives of garden clubs responded to roll call from cities within the district, Ripon, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Appleton, Menasha, Omro and Waupaca.

Miss Merl Rassmussen of Oshkosh was elected president of the district with Mrs. E. J. Wells, Oakfield, vice president. Mrs. Ralph B. Locke of Omro will be the secretary.

Lawrence Enrolls 270 New Students

College Registration May Exceed Figure for Last Year

Lawrence college will start its ninety-second academic year Wednesday with approximately the same number of first-year students as were enrolled last fall. With freshmen registration still going on, it is possible that the total figure will exceed that of last year. At present there are 270 new students registered with late registrants definitely on the way and still others pending. Last year the first-year registrations totaled 271.

A 65 per cent increase in new students is shown by the Conservatory of Music records. Transfer students, those coming from other colleges and universities, remains the same as a year ago with a total of 31. Registration for upper classes will be held Tuesday.

New Directory of Appleton Issued by Milwaukee Company

Delivery of Appleton's new city directory, published by the Wright Directory company, Milwaukee, was launched last week.

Covering the usual territory of Appleton, Combined Locks, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly and the Appleton rural routes, and maintaining the usual minimum listing age of 15, the directory lists a total of 26,475 names. This is an increase of 2,915 over the 1936 edition. Increases in the number of listings and new features boosted the new directory 130 pages over its predecessor of two years ago.

In the street section of the new directory the publishers have placed a figure after the name of each household, showing the total population of the house, including those who are too young to read individual listings of their names in the directory. Also, as a separate department, a numerical telephone guide has been inaugurated.

Special features of the directory, although not new with this edition, are the designation of owner-occupied homes; of rosters of government officials; and a story of Appleton.

There will be the customary distribution to the free-reference directory libraries of other cities.

Movie Land Its People and Products

Errol Flynn—who is always news—probably didn't realize that he was demonstrating the classic example of it when he was forced in self defense to bite the dog in a scene from the uproarious comedy, "Four's a Crowd." In extreme contrast is his next starring role in "The Sisters."

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—Idol Chatter: The more I see of Hollywood and Vine, the more I think it's a pretty dismal corner to be so famous. Too bad "Gone With the Wind" wasn't written ten years earlier.

Oliver Borden was the perfect "Scarlett," background and all. Tribute to human nature: the wad of chewing gum I found yesterday under the arm of Olivia de Havilland's canvas chair.

Wonder if the Fidler complaisance with which M-G-M regards Wally Beery's flying is evidence that his box-office power is on the wane?

Walter Pidgeon was probably the original "Flat Foot Floogie." It will take more than a coat of grease paint to cure Maxie Rosenbloom's "pug" habits—he still looks down before each scene to make sure that his shoe laces are tight. In his present picture, Freddie Bartholomew spends six reels trying to find Mary Astor a husband—amusing when you remember that Mary is now wed to her third. Silly sights: Six-foot, four-inch Arthur Treacher airing his toy Yorkshire terrier "Miss Hannah."

No matter how I discipline myself, I always give way to an inward smile when Valentino Parera uses "we" in discussing Grace Moore's business affairs. Peas in a pod: "Maureen O'Sullivan, now—and Alice Brady fifteen years ago. Anything significant in the fact that since Joan scissor Franchot, she's quit singing opera and now chirps jazz?

Yesterday, a second-rate comedian named Joe Yule who earns perhaps $100 a week in "The Follies," a Main Street burlesque house, gave Hollywood a lesson in ethics. Joe's son is known professionally as Mickey Rooney. He earns, in a month, more than his father earns in a year. Recently his fame has grown by such leaps and bounds that it has touched his father, and a smartie picture producer, hoping to cash in on it, made Joe Yule an offer of a year's contract at $500 a week. That's undoubtedly more than Joe ever earned in his life. But he refused—and refused angrily. "You're trying to capitalize

Munich Residents Hoping for Peace But are Ready to Fight if War Comes

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Munich, Germany.—(AP)—This cradle of nazism and favorite city of Chancellor Hitler is hoping eagerly that peace will emerge from Hitler's meeting with Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain. The two are expected to meet at Godesberg-on-the-Rhine, probably tomorrow, to continue their deliberations on the fate of Czechoslovakia, begun Thursday at Berchtesgaden.

Munich, briefly host to Chamberlain on his way to the historic Berchtesgaden conference is proud but she does not want war and this feeling of her citizenry likely is that of a great majority of the people of Germany.

But the people of Munich will tell you flatly that they will fight, if the flag calls, even though in some quarters real anxiety is displayed and people with children have in mind the dangers of aerial bombardment.

A youthful German of excellent education summed up the attitude pretty well in discussing a news broadcast that "Czechs have killed a large number of Sudeten Germans."

He told me "we don't want war, but I don't see how we can go on letting them kill our people like that."

His was a typical viewpoint expressed by city dwellers who read the newspapers and listen to the radio. The peasants of the rural district as yet knows but little of the dispute.

While the city folk are aware that a war may come, and that Germany may have to fight England, France and soviet Russia as well as Czechoslovakia, there is pretty much a normal atmosphere here.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Five Famous Poets

—JOHN MILTON

One day, while I was visiting a cousin in England, she said to me, "John Milton's one-time home is at Chalfont-St. Giles, only a few miles from here. Would you like to see it?"

"I certainly would!" I replied, and in a little while we were on our way to one of England's shrines, the home of the man who ranks as probably second greatest of English poets. It was a little house, but it was solidly built, and has lasted nearly three centuries since the poet lived there.

Going into the main room downstairs, I saw a large fireplace. Seated in that room, Milton used to dedicate poems to his daughters—after he went blind at the age of 44.

Milton's most famous poem is known as "Paradise Lost." It is a long one, containing many thousands of words. It deals largely with events described in the Bible, but also contains personal thoughts of the man who wrote it.

Satan is one of the leading characters of the poem. In heaven he had been the archangel Lucifer, but he had rebelled and had been cast into hell.

Milton tries to give a picture of hell. It was to be reached after a nine days' fall from heaven. It was a great pit containing a lake of fire, with a rocky desert around it, also swamps and a land of snow and ice.

The poet tells us Satan was the master of a host of fallen angels "with a million swords" and "10,000 banners" in their army. All of those in hell were angry about their fate, and wanted to take revenge because they had been cast there. They decided to invade heaven, and took part in a battle in which cannons were fired. The army of Satan was at last driven back by the sight of Jesus.

Adam and Eve are described in their Paradise—the Garden of Eden. They are happy until a serpent crawls in. It is a talking snake, Satan in disguise. The snake tempts Eve to eat the apple of forbidden knowledge. She and Adam both eat of the apple, and as a result lose their right to live in the Garden of Paradise. Satan has taken his revenge!

That is a very short account of "Paradise Lost," but it helps explain the meaning of the name. After Milton wrote the poem, he became more famous than he had been before. He followed it with another work, "Paradise Regained."

Milton's greatest poems were written while he was blind, and this fact shows how well a brave man can work after sorrow comes to him.

Milton was a Puritan, and a friend of Oliver Cromwell. He held a public office while Cromwell was in power. His death took place in 1674, at the age of 65.

The publisher of "Paradise Lost" paid Milton 10 pounds (about $50 at present exchange) for the right to print it as a book. That was not a large reward, but Milton was thinking mainly about his work. He wanted to give the world the poetry which sprang from his nature.

Terrors Tie on Swamp's Dash

Run Saves Appleton From Defeat at Hands Of Menasha St. Mary

BY GORDON MCINTYRE

OR no good reason at all, Appleton and Menasha St. Mary High school football teams slid and splashed to a 0-0 tie Saturday afternoon at Whiting field of Lawrence college. The game was played in a continuous downpour that left the gridirers soaked, the spectators drenched and the Whiting field gridiron badly chewed and torn.

The only reason for the game apparently was to show that Appleton isn't doing so well in its grid lessons this fall. St. Mary had a better polished team, an aggregation that had a definite offensive and might have won if it hadn't been for a single lapse which permitted Appleton to score. Or if Rube Prunuski had been able to remain in the game and open holes in the Appleton forward wall as he did during the early part of the second quarter.

Terrors Look Bad
During the first half Appleton was a rather pathetic looking squad for it had no fire and no enthusiasm. Midway in the first quarter Chuck Sample was sent into the contest to snap the Terrors out of their lethargy. But he apparently was not kidding about not feeling so well last week for he had no desire to play football and showed it by indifferent running and general play. He failed to return to the game in the third quarter, but performed for a few minutes in the fourth.

Offensively Appleton still has the reverse and a couple forward passes and nothing else. Defensively the Terrors played good ball but St. Mary found its way through other positions and encountered not too much trouble with forward passes.

The first quarter saw play pretty much in Appleton's half the field because it was kicking against the wind. Menasha made four first downs compared to none for the Terrors. Once St. Mary threatened a bit when Koerner returned an Appleton punt 25 yards to the Terror 34.

Resch Outstanding
Bill Resch, who incidentally was the standout back of the day, punted out of bounds on the Appleton 11. The Terrors punted again and shortly thereafter a forward pass to Picard and some running by Laux gave the invaders a first down on the 13-yard line. Here Appleton held and the Zephyrs attempted to kick with Laux in the feature role. It was low.

St. Mary marched to its touchdown in the second quarter. The drive started just inside Appleton territory when Laux heaved a pass to Resch and the latter was brought down on the Terror 15-yard line. The play gained 30 yards. After a play was stopped, Resch found an opening in the Appleton line and galloped nine yards to the 6-yard line. Koerner added three more yards bringing a first down on the 4-yard stripe. Resch then smashed through the middle of the Terror line and was stopped on the 1-yard line. The next time he again went over center and scored with yards to spare. Rube Prunuski, Zephyr center, was doing a lot to open holes for the attack.

Swamp Scores
St. Mary opened the kickoff which opened the second half but accomplished nothing and punted against the wind to the St. Mary 43. On the first play George Swamp, who has replaced Sample, cut inside his own right tackle, reversed the field and scampered 43 yards for a touchdown. His attempted place kick was low.

Appleton was a much revived team in the third stanza and attempted to make a battle of things. It worked several reverses for gains but had no sustained attack. Once it moved to the St. Mary 23 when Swamp tossed to Brasch. St. Mary then held and an attempted place kick was far short.

The fourth quarter saw St. Mary push Appleton deep into Terror territory with punts, the wind and the rain. The Zephyrs took the ball on a fumble on the Appleton 42 and marched to the 19. Rube Prunuski turned in two nice runs, one to the right and the other to the left, for the major part of the game. Resch's fumble on the 14 ended the march. Bussing recovered for Appleton.

Tuchschcer, who had replaced Prunuski at center for St. Mary, was spending all his time in the Appleton back field at this stage, and several times stopped the Terror running attack with losses.

Bill Resch finally got off a punt which rolled out of bounds on the Appleton 4-yard line and then the Zephyrs came so close to closing a safety it was uncomfortable. After Heinritz had fumbled and recovered on the Appleton 3-yard line, Sample went back to punt in the end zone.

The pass from center was low and Sample scooped it up and then started to get out of the area with a horde of Zephyrs charging down on him. Several missed him by the proverbial hair and he was dragged down on the 4-yard line. He then booted out of danger and there were no more threats.

Kaukauna Bows To Sheboygan In Grid Opener

Clay Watson and Carl Giordana Give Losers Their Touchdowns

BY BILL DOWLING

KAUKAUNA—A combination of rain and a halfback named Roger Loving proved too much for the Kaws Saturday and Sheboygan North went home on the satisfactory end of a 12 to 6 count. The visitors scored at the beginning of the first and fourth quarters, with the losers making their touchdown the second time they secured the ball.

When Loving, who gained over 100 yards in 21 tries, wasn't engaged in putting together some of North's seven first downs, he was doing his best to embarrass the Kaws with his punting, and on two occasions was almost perfect, booting the ball out of bounds on the two and six yard lines. Kaukauna had the ball in enemy territory just three times, once on the series of the first and fourth quarters, with the losers making their touchdown the second time they secured the ball.

Backs Flash Power
As was expected the Kaw line was weak, with inexperienced players in several of the positions. The backfield showed flashes of power, but didn't have the ball enough to really get going. Carl Giordana at halfback was the Kaw's outstanding player, making more than half the yardage while in the game. Coach Paul E. Little stuck pretty well to his starting lineup, but used George Steffens and Willis Rantquette, sophomore and freshman back, most of the last period.

The visitors kicked off and four plays later had six points. After Giordana had picked up seven from the Kaw 30 a bad pass from center sailed over Kobussen's head and was downed on the 17. Kobussen kicked out to his own 45 yard line, and Loving promptly ran it back to the two, from where he plunged over. Hasenstein's placement was wide and low.

The Kaws then chose to kick to Sheboygan, and when the visitors failed to gain took Loving's punt on the enemy's 28. Kobussen made one and then Clay Watson circled left end for 23 yards to the four yard line. Sheboygan lost two as they were offside and then Giordana drove over to tie the score. The kick was blocked.

Kaw Fumble Costly
The deciding touchdown came as the result of a Kaw fumble. Towards the end of the third period Loving kicked from his own 44 yard line to Watson, who muffed the catch, North recovering on the 17. Loving made three and Ahl advanced it to the ten yard mark as the period ended. Loving made 7 and then all but a foot of the way on the first play of the last period, with Ahl going through the center for the score. A pass for the extra point was knocked down.

It was all Sheboygan from then on until the waning minutes. Kaukauna received the kickoff but Sheboygan got the ball on the Kaws' 22 as Steffens fumbled. A Kaukauna offense made it first and ten on the ten, but here the attack bogged down. Loving was stopped cold, Mahne gained three, and the winners lost 15 yards for holding. Mahne made five in two tries, and then North was penalized five yards as they took a little too much time. On fourth down Mahne made one and the Kaws took the ball.

Three plays netted the Kaws thirty yards and two first downs. After a pass was grounded Watson ran left end for 11, and Alger made a nice catch of Giordana's pass for 20 more as the gun sounded.

Bob Dougherty recovered a fumble for the Kaws in the third period, staving off another Sheboygan drive after the visitors had advanced to the Kaukauna 20.

"Kelly" Weller Gets Dunked As Power Softballers Lose

HILBERT "KELLY" WELLER, who has aspired to managerial heights on numerous occasions and who has been president of the American Softball league for years and years, and secretary of the Industrial Bowling league for almost as long, is almost convinced it isn't worth while.

Chaffin Chapter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

YES, SIR, we saw the Packers play yesterday and never got a drop of water on us and weren't a bit cold. We saw the first half from the confines of the Hotel Northland bar and most of the second half from Sham O'Brien's out near the Packer stadium. Just as the game ended we beat it down town and stood around the Northland while the folks came in from the game wet, cold, and a few disappointed.

After all, we stood around in the rain Saturday while watching the high school and St. Mary and that was enough. We got a little dampish and cold but not so much because over the years we've acquired wet weather clothing. But if you've ever tried to take notes on a piece of wet pulp you can imagine the fun we had.

Why the high school game wasn't postponed is a question unless the Terror officials could see into the future and see rain Monday and Tuesday. It wasn't raining at 11 o'clock but it was at 12 or shortly thereafter and with only six miles between the two schools, St. Mary might easily have been kept at home until the last minute or the game postponed on general principles. Grid games aren't usually postponed when the visiting team comes a long distance but that wasn't the case Saturday. The teams could have been gotten together any afternoon about 3:30.

The most logical reason would have been that the Terrors will play Friday night under lights at Fond du Lac. The game will dedicate Fondy's new lighted field.

Appleton didn't look so hot, as a matter of fact, it looked bad. But don't blame Coach Wallace Cole too much. He can't coach a squad of 40 alone. When he coaches the backs the linemen aren't getting enough work, and when he coaches the linemen the backs are having a lot of fun. When Cole takes his first eleven aside for a little work then the rest of the squad stands around. And in between times it rains.

The rain washed out the Coated-Woolen game for tonight and now it's scheduled for Wednesday. The Church league game Sunday also was washed out and Tommy Ryan of St. Mary is considering an ark big enough to stage the contest. The County league games also went overboard. Looks like the boys won't get through any sooner than last year. The final County game saw snow in the air.

Seymour Kiwanis club is having the Seymour baseball team as its guests at a dinner and meeting tomorrow evening at Hotel Falck. We've been invited to be among those present. Joe Shields was invited, too, but he has a previous engagement and won't be able to attend.

Hugh Strange, Jr., and the Doty Tennis club have arranged to bring a group of tennis professionals to Menasha next Sunday. They'll include George Lott and Berkley Bell among others. The prices are to be rather low so that anyone who has even a faint interest in tennis may see the matches. It should be a great opportunity for a lot of youngsters who have become tennis minded with all the new courts in the Fox River valley.

If any store open in Green Bay yesterday and selling rain coats didn't sell out, it was the fault of the proprietor. The bugs were buying even women's raincoats to throw over their shoulders and overcoats.

The Cub management doesn't consider the Bruins out of the series yet. It advertised in the Sunday sheets that it would accept applications for world series tickets—contingent on the Bruins winning the national league pennant. And the Bruins lost one and tied one and the Pirates won one and tied one. And the ties are washouts.

"Red" Dawson's Question Box

By LOWELL (RED) DAWSON

QUESTION: Why does a coach use the same offense from year to year?

ANSWER: It is unwise to change the offense from year to year, as experience develops confidence and execution. The execution is more important than design, providing fair judgment is used. Attributes for a winning team are morale, poise and determination, and confidence supplies the first two to a large extent.

2 Intersectional Games to Feature Big Ten Openers

U. of Washington Invades Minnesota; Hawkeyes Travel Westward

BY ARNOLD DERLITZKI

CHICAGO—(AP)—A double charge of intersectional competition—all Pacific coast—will help blast open the Big Ten's 1938 football season this week.

From the west to face Minnesota will come the University of Washington, a veritable powder keg to the Big Ten champion's hopes of a fourth mythical title in five years. To the west to oppose the University of California at Los Angeles will go Irl Tubbs' Iowa Hawkeyes, an almost undetermined quantity except for the talents of Nile Kinick.

Two Other Openers
Saturday's two other Big Ten openers include the Detroit-Purdue and Ohio University-Illinois conference school games for the conference school.

The Gophers will launch their seventh season under Coach Bernie Bierman against a team which even its coach, Jimmy Phelan, agrees is studded with backfield talent.

At Iowa, meanwhile, Tubbs continues to try to brush "rough spots" from an apparently stronger eleven than that which finished last in the conference last year.

Speedy Purdue Team
Illinois, sturdier and its offense considerably strengthened with the ineptitude of George Retzlaff, expects its usual trouble with Ohio University, which upset the Illini in 1935. Last year Illinois won 20 to 6.

It will be a speedy Purdue eleven which will square off against Detroit. The Boilermakers lost 14 lettermen last year, including the 15-let brothers, and the Gus Dorais coached team should provide a real opening test.

Meeting of Reds Is Called for Tonight
Appleton Reds football team, slated to play at Clintonville Tuesday night (if the football field can be used) will meet at Jones park at 7:30 this evening. The Reds were slated to practice yesterday afternoon but didn't because of the weather.

TWIN ACES
Greensboro, N. C.—(AP)—Bobby Dunkelberger of Greensboro, who won the French amateur golf championship in June, has a younger brother, Donald, who may become an even better player than Bobby. Donald still is in his early teens, but he is hot on the trail of par in almost every round he plays.

HERE'S ONE WAY TO KEEP DRY AT A PACKER GAME

There are ways and ways to keep dry at a football game when the skies are pouring barrels of water, and while many persons at the Packer-Bear game at Green Bay yesterday had their own ideas, it took three Appleton people to steal the show. The above picture shows, left to right, Mrs. Charles Pond, Mrs. George Limpert and Charles Pond, pretty well covered with oil cloth as they watched the gridirers slide and splash. Hoies were cut for heads and arms and then they let it rain. (Green Bay Press-Gazette Photo)

Harry Stuhldreher Warns U. W. Fans Not to Expect Too Much From Gridirers

Exhibition at Minnesota Last Year Was Inspired Ball

Editors: This is the first of a series of stories, written for the Associated Press by football coaches of Wisconsin colleges and universities, outlining their plans and prospects for the year.

BY HARRY STUHLREHER
University of Wisconsin Football Coach

(Written for the Associated Press)
ADISON—(AP)—This last year I have been entertained with the expressed opinions of many concerning the prospects for the Badger football team in 1938. As a matter of fact, very seldom do I have to tell the prospects, for more often the facts are stated to me.

I can well understand why many laymen are enthusiastic about the coming Wisconsin football team. They only remember the game at Minneapolis last fall where our boys did a fine piece of work against Minnesota. If Wisconsin had been playing true to form that day, it wouldn't have been such a spectacular game; but what changed the complexion of the whole contest was that the Cardinal jersey boys were playing inspired ball and way above their heads.

Now if we could expect this same type of ball in every game this year, there would be foundation for the general belief. However, such is not the case. It is impossible to even approach that height of playing every Saturday.

Not Below Par
It is not my thought to give the general impression that Wisconsin is going to be below par. That is not the case either. As a matter of fact, the 1938 edition should be an improvement over the last two years. How much, it is pretty hard to say, but at any rate the boys are inclined in the proper direction.

If all of us would take a good look at the schedule, I am sure that more sound reasoning would result. It is probably the most difficult layout of games that could be arranged. Each Saturday is a new season and if we can get a few good seasons together, it will indeed be encouraging. However, with such opposition, anything is liable to happen.

I don't think for a minute that we can duplicate the 1937 record; but if we do, then I will be more than satisfied.

In most all positions additional experience should help a great deal. Many of these boys have had the advantage of playing under our style for at least a year, and, as they continue to do things, they become second nature to them as a consequence better functioning results.

Again its looks as though the backfield will have to carry the brunt of the work. It is true that we have four veterans able to step into the breach that have already proven their worth, namely Howard Weiss, fullback, ably assisted by Vincent Gavre, quarterback, and teens, but he is hot on the trail of par in almost every round he plays.

Forward Pass in 2nd Period Wins For Kimberly Hi

Defeats Chilton in Rain And Mud There Saturday Afternoon

CHILTON—Kimberly High school gridirers opened the football season here Saturday with a 6 to 0 victory over Chilton in a game played in a pouring rain.

Not until the closing seconds of the first half was the scoreless tie broken. Breuer, right half of the Papermakers, flipped a neat 20-yard pass to Left End Vanden Boogaard for the only touchdown of the game. The Chilton boys threatened to score at the outset of the second quarter when, after an exchange of punts, the wet ball was fumbled by Kimberly on its own 20 and recovered by Chilton on the Papermakers' 4-yard line.

Chilton elected to pass and each pass was knocked down. Kimberly took the ball and kicking to its 45-yard stripe. Frequent fumbles by both teams due to the wet, slippery ball, made plays almost impossible.

Kimberly kicked to Chilton's 20 to open the second half. Line plays failed and Weyenberg recovered a blocked punt on Chilton's 12. The visitors were penalized five yards for offside. An intercepted pass by Schwartz of Chilton ran the ball back to the papermakers' 37. Chilton tried passes which were incomplete and the third quarter ended with the Papermakers still out in front.

Kimberly showed power in John Gaffney, B. Weyenberg and J. Breuer. Time after time these gridirers were off to good gains, only to slip and slide on the wet turf. The Papermakers were contented to protect their lead with the game nearing the closing minutes.

One hundred and twenty-five Kimberly fans or more braved the inclement weather to travel to Chilton to cheer their lads to victory.

GREEN BAY—(4)—The Green Bay Packers stood at 500 in the National Professional football league percentage column today after taking a 2 to 0 defeat from the Chicago Bears before 15,172 fans here yesterday.

The game was played in a driving, constant rain. Late in the fourth period Arnie Herber of the Bears attempted twice to punt. Each time the pass from center Darrell Lester was bad. The second slid over the goal line where it bounced off Flanagan, Bear end, and was pounced on by Jones, Bear guard, for the safety.

Punting, by Herber and Clark Hinkle of the Packers and Sam Francis of the Bears, was outstanding despite the slippery ball.

Miss Field Goals

Neither team came close to a touchdown, and three attempts to kick field goals went awry. Jack Manders missed from the 35-yard line for the Bears in the second period. Hinkle blew a 16-yarder in the third and a desperate 37-yard boot with less than a minute of the game left.

The Packers made seven first downs to three for the Bears, and outgained the Chicagoans in yardage, 118 to 75. The Packers' vaunted aerial attack was lacking, only three of eight attempted forwards being completed.

Bill Marmett was the main ground gainer for the Bears, while Francis and Schweidler paced the invaders.

Chicago—(4)—The Chicago Bears headed the National Professional League football parade today, still undefeated despite the fact that in two games they have scored only 18 points, two under any other club in the same number of starts.

A two-point safety gave them their ranking.

Lanky Bob Masterson, rookie end from Miami University, saved Washington from defeat in yesterday's other game. There was less than a minute to go with the ball on Brooklyn's 15 yard line when Masterson booted a field goal to tie the score 16 to 16.

HINKLE GOES SPLASHING BUT PACKERS LOSE TO BEARS
A couple had passes from center, the last resulting in a safety, cost the Packers a 2-0 decision yesterday in their first struggle with the Bears at Green Bay. However, there were brighter moments in the game and above is one of them. It shows Clark Hinkle, the Packers' star back, splashing for a gain. The Bear wearing a mask and about to grab the Hink is Joe Stydahar, left tackle. The other Bear is unidentified. (Green Bay Press-Gazette Photo)

Badgers in for Heavy Drills to Polish Defense

Stuhldreher Praises First String Backfield After Scrimmage

MADISON—(4)—Scrimmages and rough contact work were in prospect for Coach Harry Stuhldreher's Badger griders this week as the Wisconsin mentors prepared to polish up the squad's defense.

Stuhldreher said the defense was "weak" after looking at four teams perform Saturday when the varsity took the third team into camp, 19 to 0. The second squad triumphed over the fourth, 20 to 6.

Saturday's test, however was not an accurate gauge to the various players' abilities. Wisconsin coaches said, since the scrimmages were played in a heavy rain, laterals, passing, and punting are also due for some drill this week.

Praises Backfield
Stuhldreher had praise for his first string backfield of Gavre, quaterback, Bellin and Schmitz, halves, and Weiss, fullback, following Saturday's workout. Barring injuries this quartet is expected to start against Marquette here Oct. 1.

This week's sessions will go a long way toward settling first string line choices. Jack Murray and Johnny Doyle are closely matched for the center job, while Lynn Hovland, at left guard, and O'Brien and Holloway at right guard are strong candidates for their positions. The fight for the tackle positions is still wide open, but veteran Brodghen has a good line on the right tackle spot. The race for the end posts also is still undecided with Wegner and Weigand taking the lead on current performances.

Brooklyn Has Host of Griders From 'Dixie'

Pirates Lead by 31-2 Games After Winning, Tying

Cups Lose and Tie With Brooklyn; Dean Hurl Shuts Out Ball

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, aiming for the National League pennant, played through 15 soggy innings yesterday with the Phillies to add one victory and a tie to their standings.

Russ Bauers held the Phils to four hits in the opening game and won by a 1 to 0 score in the ninth. Paul Waner's single with two out scored Dickshot, pinch-running for Al Todd.

The second game was called in the fifth inning because of darkness, the score at 1 and 1. A double-header was scheduled for tomorrow. The bill was held up an hour and a half while the rain-soaked field was prepared for play.

Waner Bats In Run By winning their game while second place Chicago was losing its opener to Brooklyn, the Pirates increased their lead to 3½ games.

After Dickshot went to first on Todd's single in the ninth with Al Hollingsworth pitching, Bauers struck out. L. Waner sacrificed Dickshot to second.

Paul Waner, elder of the Pirate brother team, slammed the ball into center field and Dickshot scampered around for the only score of the game.

Bucs Tally In Fifth The Phils made a serious bid for a run in the second inning when, with one out, Aronovich doubled and Whitney singled, but the Pirates quelled the uprising with a fast double play.

The Pirates made two hits in the first of the second game, but failed to score. Rizzo was run down at the plate on Vaughn's single to end the inning. Vaughn had attempted to stretch the wallop to a double.

The Pirates, however, broke through in the fourth. With one out, Suhr doubled to the score-board and counted on F. Young's single. Mueller scored for the Phils in the fourth.

Major Grid Teams Will Clash in Initial Tilts

BY HUGH S. FULLETON, Jr. NEW YORK — (AP) — Big time football, which once was satisfied to claim the spotlight after the World Series had been finished, steps right up this week to demand its full share of attention.

Big schools have found "push-over" warm-up games unprofitable and the little ones have found them uncomfortable. The result is a set of headline games that would be outstanding even in mid season.

How's this for one week's collection of major contests: Alabama versus Southern California at Los Angeles Saturday and Iowa versus U.C.L.A. Friday night.

Rain Interrupts National Net Meet

Three Semi-Final Matches Remain to be Played in Tourney

Forest Hills, N. Y. — (AP) — With the clouds showing no signs of clearing, play in the National Singles Tennis championships at the West Side tennis club was postponed today for the third straight day.

Forest Hills, N. Y. — (AP) — A drizzling autumn rain continues to plague the National tennis championships, now already three days in arrears, but nobody is getting hurt because all seats for the semi-finals and finals have been sold for several days.

The tournament committee is very level-headed about returning any money that the public once has turned loose. Its policy, simply stated, is never to return any money.

So there is every reason to believe that the championships will be concluded one of these days, even should it become necessary to move them indoors.

3 Semi-Finals Remain Three semi-final tussles remain to be decided today, or one of these days. Nancie Wynne, the willowy Australian girl, reached the last round of the women's division Saturday when she beat Dorothy Bundy of California.

Her opponent will be settled to day if Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan manage to get in the requisite number of licks between indoor walls.

Gene Maki plays Jack Brownich of Australia in the first of the men's semis, with Don Budge and Sidney Wood, Jr., contesting the other.

Wood is very enthusiastic about getting this far and fondly believes he will give Budge a lot of battle, but Maki is filled with doubt about beating the Australian.

MAY JOIN TOUR Forest Hills, N. Y. — (AP) — It was reported on excellent authority at the National Singles Tennis championships today that an American promoter, just returned from Germany, has arranged for Baron Gottfried von Cramm to come to America as soon as his prison term is finished this winter and go on a professional tour with Fred Perry, Ellis Vines and Don Budge.

No announcement is being made at this time, however, pending the outcome of Europe's unsettled state. The German star would, of course, have to obtain permission from his government to make the trip.

First Mat Show Wednesday Night

Twin Cities Fans to See Wrestlers at S. A. Cook Armory

Menasha—Hero and villain roles will be resumed for the benefit of Twin City mat fans Wednesday night at S. A. Cook armory when William Erickson promotes the first show of the season. Because of a conflict in dates, Freeze, the human iceberg, will not be available as an added attraction but Erickson declared that he would have something extra for the fans.

Based on past records, one of the hero-villain duels will be between Joe Dorsetti, the Italian rebel, and Buzz Reynolds. Dorsetti only has to appear in the ring and give his fascist salute in order to draw down the boos of the crowd. In addition, he likes to be on the giving end of the rough stuff. His opponent is one of the clan of wrestling Reynolds who appeared here two years ago.

The clean cut in which both boys will go to work in the best exhibition of wrestling will be between Stan Peck, Omaha, and Ray Herrin, Chicago. Peck, who held the state middle weight championship for a while last year under the Toile-Strahota combine, always has given a demonstration of wrestling skill for the mat followers.

It appears that Speedy Franks, who formerly held a reputation as a villain, will be backed off the map by the newcomer whom he meets in the 30 minute opener. Gerilla Pocki of California, Pocki is reported to be really tough while Franks has been somewhat tamer since he failed to conquer the Italian rebel.

Pittsburgh Releases Karcis, Veteran Back

Pittsburgh — (AP) — Johnny Karcis, veteran back, and Billy Wilson, rookie end, were given their walk-out papers by the Pittsburgh Pirates, National League pro football team, following the squad's third consecutive defeat at Buffalo Friday night. Karcis said the Brooklyn Dodgers claimed his contract shortly after he telegraphed them he had been released. He played with the Dodgers for five years.

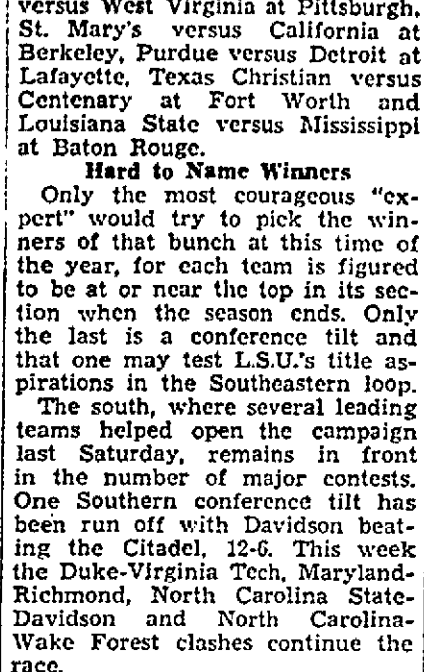

Niemi, Ironwood, Mich. center, and Del Rider, Mauston, Wis., fullback. Twenty-five players have sophomore ranking.

Flanagan and daughter Miss Marie Flanagan have returned from a trip to the south, where they visited Karl Liefer, a patient in the hospital at Blytheville, Arkansas. They also visited at St. Louis, Mo., and at Memphis, Tenn. On their trip they stopped at Wauwatosa, Wis., where they spent Sunday with Mrs. Flanagan's parents.

Mrs. Frank Jepson left Thursday for Madison, Wis., spending some time with her daughter and becoming acquainted with her new grandsons, Thomas James Murphy. The child was born Sept. 6 to Mr. and Mrs. James T. Murphy of Madison.

President's Use of His Strikers Hurts Morale

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—General Hugh Johnson's picturesque opinion of the presidential dog-robbers, Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohen, is one of the most touching detestations of the New Deal phase of American politics. It has been largely through the repetitious expression of the old cavalryman's loathing for this book-smart pair that their famous passion for anonymity has been starved to death.

As a result of publicity from the general they are now as famous as they may have wished to be obscure and are growing more so day by day.

Even though he may not realize it, the general probably has in his soul some of the traditional feeling of the soldier in the ranks for the captain's striker who gets the leaveings from the table and apparel of the head man and a chance to slip in an occasional needle load of company gossip and advice.

The dog-robber, like Tommy and Ben, occupies an undefined position, being neither a soldier in the full sense of the word nor an officer but has his being in the atmosphere of command, removed from many of the duties and disciplinary hazards of life in the ranks.

The feeling of the men on the hill, those rough-and-tumble regulars of politics who have to go into action to save their political lives and subsist on the regular mess, seems to be similar to Johnson's. Politics is their business, and they are exposed to risks and temptations that do not exist in the sheltered life of the political secretariat.

It would be strange indeed if a senator or representative, taking a full part in the company life and duties, did not feel slightly resentful at the smirking officiousness of a protected presidential house pet in telling him what he must do in some matter involving his manly independence if not his principles which nowadays are mentioned only with a sneer, anyway.

Resentment Results When Dog-Robbers Give Orders He would be no mar if he did not sense presumption in such approaches and in threats, however suavely put and however authentic. No wise company commander would send his dog-robber to issue orders for distasteful duty to soldiers in the ranks with accompanying intimations of so much K. P. or so many days in the guardhouse for failure.

Mr. Roosevelt has his sergeants for such missions, but he was chosen to use his strikers instead and has permitted them to concoct onerous assignments which gall the souls of the old campaigners, with the natural result that the company morale has been shot to hell.

The rather spindly existence of the president's political batmen has been thrown in the faces of the rough-handed and deep-voiced bucks in the barracks who, in a manner of speaking, shoot craps, get drunk and otherwise conduct themselves as common soldiers. They have to stand inspection by both their constituents and the boss and are invited to the White House only to be crawled or specially instructed, whereas Tommy and Ben stand neither formations nor inspections and enjoy the possession of latchkeys to the skipper's quarters.

Old-Timers Don't Like To Be Pushed Around Tommy and Ben never earned chevrons in the party. They came in only yesterday as soft-handed recruits. And yet old-timers in the Democratic outfit have been given to feel that a commander to whom they offered loyal co-operation within the articles of war has let his dog-robbers push them around and threaten them with court-martial and execution for failure to comply with schemes which violated their ingrained understanding of their obligations to the country.

Johnson, as any army man has the instinct to respect his sergeants as a means of commanding respect for them and for his own authority. Let a commanding officer discredit his sergeants and he discredits not only them but himself in the eyes of those to whom he looks for respect, obedience and that impalpable power called co-operation which even the most obedient troops can withhold.

Hitler Wants to be "Provoked" Into War To Rescue Sudetens

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY Washington — Adolf Hitler used up an hour and a quarter and thousands of words at Nurnberg to keep the world on an uneasy seat, but to the statesmen of the great powers he spoke 26 subtle and special words.

"We would be sorry," he said toward the end of his address, "if our relations with other European states would become clouded or suffer from this demand (for self-determination of Germans in Czechoslovakia)."

"But it would not be our fault." So that's it. German soldiers won't march into the Sudeten territory of Czechoslovakia and claim it for the Reich—not yet.

First, Germany's case must go to the bar of world opinion, and Germany's patience must be worn threadbare.

The German Brotherhood As one interpreter explained the German case, it's like this: Everybody, everywhere must understand that the Germans are asking no more than justice for their Sudeten brothers. The Sudetens are Germans and have the right, even in the democratic tradition, to join the Fatherland.

And if they should rise up and demand that right, and should be subdued by Czech troops or police, the Fatherland would have to rescue them. But that would not be an act of aggression against a neighboring state. German soldiers would be risking their lives to protect their brother Germans. In short, "It would not be our fault."

And the determined Hitler could not be pictured by enemy propagandists as "the mad dog of Europe." There would be ample reason in what he did.

Months ago, I asked one of the best informed analysts of Central European affairs why Germany did not follow up her march into Austria with an immediate annexation of the Sudeten territory with its 3,500,000 Germans.

That, said my analyst friend, would be violating the boundaries of an alien state, and it should never be done without provocation. He went on to explain that Austria is wholly Germanic in historical boundaries, with few minority elements. It was a complete unit of the old German Empire in itself, and was intact, except for the Italian administered Tyrol. In taking it over, Hitler was simply wiping out a synthetic boundary.

World Opinion At Stake But Czechoslovakia is something else again. However synthetic its boundaries may be, it contains racial and historical elements that were never German in the remotest sense of the word. Therefore, once a nation "violates" a Czech boundary, the Czechs can claim before world opinion that their national integrity has been violated. They would be in a position of martyrs before world opinion.

"No," said my analyst friend. "Germany probably won't take the Sudeten territory of Czechoslovakia that way. If she is to act, Germany must be provoked into protecting the Sudetens against the Czechs. Before that provocation comes, Germany might even see her way clear to accept a Sudeten settlement."

"Violent protest would naturally arise within the Sudeten area. The Czechs could be accused of persecuting Sudetens and violating a sacred agreement. Germany then could act and explain to the world that she was provoked into action—as well she might be from a strictly German point of view."

After Hitler's Nurnberg speech, I began to wonder if my analyst friend had not been reading Herr Hitler's mind all these months. For certainly the Fuehrer spent most of his hour and a quarter under the glare of a world spotlight insisting that Germany had no desire to threaten the peace of the world unless provoked.

He went on to explain that Germany had had foresworn revenge against France by giving up Alsace-Lorraine once and for all. Say It's Up To Czechs But, when it comes to Germanic people in Czechoslovakia—"It is a matter of the Czechoslovak government to arrange affairs with authorized representatives of the Sudeten Germans and come to an understanding, one way or the other."

"However, it is my affair, and that right not be turned into injustice. . . . Germans in Czechoslovakia are neither defenseless nor left in the lurch. Let them note that."

As interpreters here see it, Hitler knows as well as anybody else that the world's great powers are not eager to sacrifice the lives of millions of their citizens in a war to keep 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia from joining 75,000,000 other Germans in Germany.

From the Hitler point of view, they ask, who knows what chance acts of violence may come along, perhaps something like the shooting of the two Sudetens after the Hitler speech the other night? Would such an act provide an opportunity to bring the Sudetens into the German family in such a way that neither Great Britain nor France would feel required to fight?

In that event, German mastery over Central Europe would be within reach without the risk of a second world war. That, as my analyst friend explains it, is why Hitler can afford to bide his time a while longer.

Pension Records Reflect Economic Status of Section

Eastern Wisconsin Counties Seem to be in Favorable Situation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—That economic conditions in the eastern district of Wisconsin, including the Fox River Valley and the northern lake shore, are more favorable generally than any other section of the state is shown in statistics furnished by the Wisconsin County Boards association today.

The eastern economic district of the state, the figures show, has fewer old age pensioners than any other section, 14 per cent of the persons over 65 years of age, which is less than half the proportion receiving such assistance in the poorest part of the state, the northwest counties.

The eastern economic district includes Brown, Calumet, Door, Fond du Lac, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Outagamie, Sheboygan and Winnebago counties. Fond du Lac has the highest per centage of pensioners.

Edward Breitman Rents Bernard Nelson Farm

Leeman — Edward Breitman, who returned recently from Ft. Wright, Wash., has rented the Bernard Nelson farm east of Leeman on Highway 156 and will move there with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Breitman.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Nelson plan to return to their home in Galesburg. The Wright Allen, and Hugo Wright families will occupy the Davey Strong house, when vacated by the Breitman family.

A son was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Schiltz, of Appleton. Mrs. Schiltz was formerly Miss Maggie Hennickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Siert Hennickson, former Leeman residents.

Mr. Dorothy Bergsbach left last week for Stevens Point to resume her duties at the teachers' college.

Mrs. Mearl Allen and daughter Geraldine and Mrs. Neils Nelson, accompanied by Mrs. John Stephenson of Black Creek, drove to West De Pere Thursday to spend the day at the home of Mrs. Chris Hazen.

New York—(AP)—Prices moved ahead sharply in the stock market today as Wall Street took the Franco-British agreement with Germany on the Czech crisis as a sign immediate hostilities in Europe were unlikely. Transactions were about 800,000 shares.

Grains in Chicago moved down readily as traders who had bought last week on war fears lightened their holdings. Wheat ended 18 to 2 cents a bushel lower and corn was down 14 to 15 cents. Cotton advanced. Curb shares showed forward over a broad front.

The favor shown steel issues found one explanation in the report of the Steel Institute showing operations this week scheduled at 47.3 per cent of capacity against 45.3 a week ago. The gain was better than usual for this time of year.

Southern Pacific was a favorite in the rail group as traders studied its August report showing an increase in net operating income for the month of more than $1,000,000 over the 1937 period, although its gross for the period was about $1,000,000 less.

Electrical equipment stocks were helped along by a study of the federal power commission made public during the weekend indicating the important chemical and metallurgical industries might show a growth of one-third in their electrical power requirements in the next five years.

Wheat Prices in Decline as War Prospects Fade

Lowest Quotations in Chicago Registered Just

Chicago—(AP)—Despite uncertainty as to Czechoslovakia's course in the face of her abandonment by England and France, wheat markets everywhere today reflected European peace prospects.

Lowest quotations reached prevailed here as dealings neared the end. Adding to handicaps of buyers was a 2,193,000 bushels increase of the United States wheat visible supply.

Receipts were: wheat 102 cars, corn 247, oats 66.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 11-2 cents lower compared with Saturday's finish, Dec. 65-64, May 66-1, corn 1-1 down, Sept. 53, Dec. 50 1/2 and oats 1 1/2 to b up.

Wolf River Still Climbing; Power Lines are Damaged

Water Level Reaches 8 1-2 Feet; Crops, Property Damaged

New London—Another two and a half inches of rain falling in this section Saturday and Sunday forced the Wolf river to a new level of 8 1/2 feet last night, threatening still more damage and loss to crops and property.

After dropping two inches during Friday night the swiftly rising waters quickly made up the loss. More than two inches of water fell Sunday, bringing the total for the last two weeks to about 10 1/2 inches.

Wind and rain yesterday caused damage to municipal electric light lines in several places. Shorted by swaying trees, main wires carrying current out along Highway 54 west of the city were shorted and burned at the corner of Waupaca street and St. John's place about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

To repair the break, city repairmen were forced to shut off the power to the north side of the business district, interrupting service for about 20 minutes. Probably the greatest disturbance caused was at the motion picture matinee at the Grand theater.

Two other lines were broken Sunday morning by trees swaying in the wind, according to Ray Thomas, superintendent of the city light and water plant. One break occurred in the line about one-half mile west of the city on Highway 54 and the other on Lawrence street, the latter cutting off residences between Pine and Lawe streets for a short time.

New London Squad May Play Tonight

Rain Forces Postponement Of Green Bay Game Saturday

New London—New London High school's first football encounter with West Green Bay was canceled Saturday night because of rain and if conditions permit arrangements have been made to play the game this evening. The contest is scheduled for 8:30 on the West Green Bay High school field.

The non-league battle will be the first performance of Coach D. N. Stacy's charges under fire and the result will give some indication of the season ahead. Though only four lettermen have returned, and only one in the line, the Stacymen are given a better pre-season rating than last year.

While the Red and White start out against the stronger teams at the outset of a tough schedule, they will have two weeks in which to iron out defects before conference play begins. This week remains open with the conference starter at Neenah Oct. 1. Rain has forced the squad to loaf since Thursday night but the rest after two weeks of hard practice should prove an asset in the Green Bay game.
